Make the Connection Lynx to a Promise

The Lynx is a Bobcat. The Bobcat is a Lynx; therefore, the yearbook-Lynx. Photos and stories serve as Lynx between what has been and what will be; and, the yearbook records that make history.

The year 2004-2005 was a major story. As Battlefield's doors opened, so did the minds and heart of parents, students, teachers, and administrators alike. It was a major breakthrough! The Lynx between past desires and future dreams became reality.

Haymarket natives had waited years for a school of their own. New families moved to the community based on the promise of a technically advanced high school - a faculty built to nurture minds, bodies, and talents of the young.

Students share myriads of benefits and enjoyed being part of the inaugural year. According to Ashley Alexander, "I know a ton more people here than I thought I would and have made even more new friends. I like all of my teachers and the classes they teach. I can sleep in longer because Battlefield is so close to where I live! There are lots of new clubs and organizations here at Battlefield that weren't offered at my old school. As a junior, I will become an important part of the Battlefield tradition by being in it's first graduating class."

Everything wasn't perfect. Many departments started the year without books and equipment that had not arrived. Class sizes were greater than anticipated, and lunch lines were long. Almost fifty percent of the student population was freshman, so inexperience was a standard characteristic of all activities.

However, the great attitude of staff and students turned adversity into promise as Bobcats chose to Break Through 2004-2005 with a style all their own. They filled the halls with laughter; the classroom with learning; the fields and courts with athleticism; and, the Lynx with beautiful faces!

The award winning band plays "Eye of the Tiger" adding to the hype at the spirit week pep rally.

The ribbon cutting ceremony on August 9th drew parents and community guests to the newest school in Prince William County.

Building Break Through

Constuction began in March 2002. On August 19, 2004 in Prince William County School Board members, Superintendent Dr. Edward Kelly, and dozens of officials and administrators joined parents, students, and faculty members to make a Break Through by cutting the ribbon to open the newest school in the county.

The imposing brick building was nestled in the beautifully landscaped 79.77 acre site. The building was under construction for two years at the cost of 53 million dollars.

Masons laid one million, six hundred thousand cinder blocks to construct the 277,000 square foot structure. The initial 1157 occupants enjoyed the roomy comfort of a building designed to house 2200.

Cutting the ribbon signified both an end and a beginning. The fun was about to begin!

Celebrating the opening of the ninth High School in PWCS, Dr. Edward L. Kelly, Supt. of Schools, Harry Parrish, and Delegate Charles present the school to the public.

Melanie Gibbson, guidance secretary; Vanessa Smith, guidance counselor; and Suzy Corbin, attendance secretary enjoy the banquet following the ceremony.

Principal Jack Parker makes his first address at Battlefield High School.

Mr. John Jenkins PWC Board Supervisor-Neabsco District, Kris Spitter General Manager of the PWC Chamber of Commerce, Charles Colgan Senator, Jack Parker Principal, Lucy Beauchamp Chairman of PWC School Board, Harry Parrish Deligate, Dr. Edward Kelley Superintendent of Schools, and Pamela Gouch Associate Supervisor of Instruction join together in cutting the opening band.

Milton John, Vice Chairman of PWC School Board for Brentsville, Don Richardson, School Board Representative of Gainesville, John Stirrup, Gainesville Board Supervisor, Martin Nohe, Coles District Supervisor, and David Taylor Mayor of Haymarket celebrate the school's opening.

Freshman Bridgette Wells sings the Alma Mater with Harry Parrish, Charles Colgan, John Jenkins, Milton Johns, and Dana Wells, Bridgette's mom looking on.

Deck the Halls!

Spirit week wouldn't have been the same without our decorated halls. The walls were covered from floor to ceiling with purple and silver. From balloons to streamers, the students covered their hallway according to class. Paw prints across the floor in the junior's hall added the finishing touches.

Signs saying "Freshman kick butt" and "How 'bout them juniors" were plastered on the walls and hung from the ceilings. Sophomores got really creative with tin foil.

Students showed their school spirit by getting involved after school and enhancing the look of the hallways. The thrill of dressing up the usually bare hallways motivated each class to make their's the best.

Freshmen Natalie Connell and Jessica Goings stay after school to help decorate the freshman hall. "Decorating the hallways was a time to really be creative and it was a lot of fun," said freshman Natalie Connell.

Junior class members showed their school spirit by holding up their hallway sign at the pep rally and chanting "How 'bout them juniors!"

Freshman Anna Bruno and others dedicated their time to laying out in the hallway and painting poster and signs. "It was fun helping out!" said freshman Pamela Norkas.

Tin foil came in handy for the creative sophomores including Devon Harris and Caitlyn Reynolds who spent their time plastering the walls.

Freshman Kim Blaylock participated in painting signs to hang up in the hallways for everyone to read.

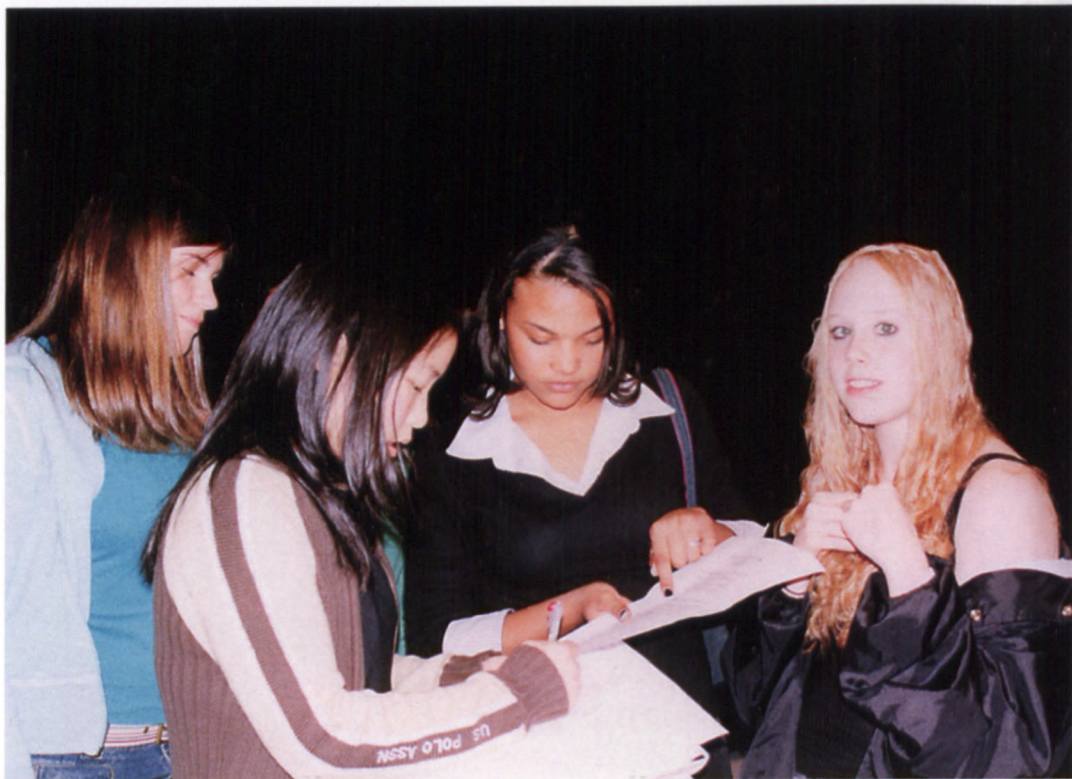

After their first class of the day, the students wandered down the sky-lit staircase trying to find their next class. After they experienced their first class of their Battlefield High School careers.

Students talk of their first day experiences with their friends.

The freshmen and sophomores await their first gym class. Sitting on the new bleachers, they wondered what the day, September, will bring.

Creating the Future

"How'd we end up being the future?" provoked Danielle Fowler. As the students were dragged out of bed for the first day of school, they were filled with an array of emotions. It was the first day for everyone at Battlefield High School. As the students began to fill the halls, there was a nervous buzz vibrating through the halls. The typical "freshman nerves" were running through all the students. Where was their next class? Would they know anyone? Juniors were bamboozled with double emotions, "It's exiting to be a junior, yet overwhelming to be a new student," says Juliette Chow.

Juniors had reached the long awaited status of being upperclassmen. Yet not knowing one's way around and being overpowered by the younger students could be a bit unsettling. "It was odd being in the oldest class, especially since there are so few juniors. It seems like the whole school is underclassmen!" said Tricia Ernst. "There is a lot of pressure on us to be perfect, for we are the leading class of a new school." claims Corey Teats.

While some wished that school would never come, and they could spend the rest of their life in and endless euphoria of the summer for the, "Dreading of all the school work" according to Nick Persian was too much to bare; others were looking forward to a new adventure at a brand new school, meeting new people and seeing old friends. However, the transportation to school brought more problems for some than they bargained for. "My mom took me to my cousin's bus stop, the bus was suppose to come at 7:09, but it never showed up," explained Brianna Byrd. Then there were those that were finally were able to drive themselves to school. Some of those who drove to school miscalculated the time to wake up and ended up walking into school as the bell rang.

After the first day of school, students look for their bus or parents, eager to get home after an exciting first day of school.

Soakin' Up the Sun...

As the Sublime song goes... Summertime and the livin's easy..." Battlefield students enjoyed their time off from school and homework to enjoy fun in the sun. Like sophomore Kim Davis, who thought "this summer was great because I hung out with my friends and the BHS Dance Team."

Students found many interesting ways to spend their time off. Junior Dana Dobson, also had a crazy adventure. "One time my friend ran away, and I had to drive her to Warrenton. So I named my car Warren."

Sophomore Kristen Gallagher knew how to make the most of her days. She enjoyed going to the "Kenny Chesney concert, just hanging out with friends and soakin' up the rays at the beach with my girls in South Carolina."

Students spent most of the year counting down the days until summer. Of course, it went by way too fast and school was back in session.

Sophomores Lauren Brewer and Kim Davis play around with friends at Kings Dominion.

Junior Sarah Levin takes in a beautiful Caribbean sunset in Aruba.

Juniors Lauren Peacock, Kraig Gough and sophomore Amanda Ours spread the love after covering each other in cake.

06/27/2004

Juniors Taylor Entsminger and Dana Dobson enjoy themselves at Universal Studios in California.

Juniors Kelly Regis and Isabelle Schumaker relax inside on a hot summer day.

Sophomore Austin Isaac said, "Mrs. Byers is wacky and odd but she is also enjoyable and lenient. She even likes Pink Floyd, which I think is really cool." Austin found out that she liked Pink Floyd one day in his Spanish 3 class while he was doing a project and had to bring in props.

Junior Laura Schafer said, "Mr. Wonders, my U.S. and VA History teacher, is great. He is like an energizer bunny, he keeps going and going and going."

Mr. Homan said, "Brant is a challenge to have in class because he keeps it so interesting." Junior Brant Hansen said, "Mr. Homan keeps me in line. He can be the most strict teacher in the school but I know he is just doing it for me."

Ms. Thumbster gives advice to junior Caulin Buhl on turning in his homework on time. She is a really nice teacher and never seemed to give too much homework. But when she did she wanted her students to turn it in on time.

Ms. Bailey is always busy doing 10 things at once. She is the yearbook teacher, and in charge of the school television broadcast as well as the newspaper.

Talented Teachers

Even though it was the first and most unexperienced year at Battlefield, students liked their teachers. Battlefield students said that the teachers here were cool and wonderful, which made it hard to pick a favorite teacher. Sophomore Chris Pow said, "All the teachers here really want to, and like to teach us." It was hard for Chris to pick a favorite teacher, but he said that "I would have to pick Miss Jarvis because she is a lot of fun."

Other students liked the more strict teachers. They would rather have a teacher that would push them to learn. They also liked the teachers who repeated stuff so that the teacher's message got engraved into their heads. One student that liked a strict teacher was junior Ginger Brothers, who said, "My favorite teacher would have to be Mr. Wonders, he drills his students into success. He is tough because he wants us to succeed."

But on the other hand, it was nice to have a laid back and funny teacher. That type of teacher was what Battlefield students usually enjoyed. Abby Dodge, a junior, said, "Mrs. Giza is an especially cool teacher, she is the funniest teacher I've ever had." One day Abby left class saying, "That was the most fun I've ever had in science class, ever!"

Other Battlefield students liked goofy teachers who weren't afraid to express themselves. These teachers liked to use their classrooms as fun environments with many learning experiences. Another junior, Justin Combs said, "My favorite teacher this year would have to be Mrs. Smith, my marketing teacher, even though it is definitely a tough choice to make. The first words that came out of her mouth on the first day of class were 'I must warn you that I'm really cheezy,' which was followed by a giggle." Justin also said that, "Mrs. Smith is a fun and loving teacher that really keeps her class having fun."

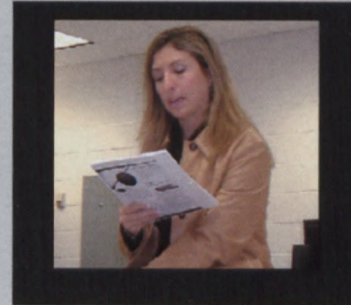

Who were the favorite teachers?

Volleyball coach, English and Humanities teacher, Mr. Lem was nominated ninth grade favorite teacher. His students really liked him for having a great attitude toward his teaching. He has a really great cheerful personality and makes the volleyball games a fun environment.

Chemistry teacher, Mrs. Wall, without counting twice, was voted tenth grade's favorite teacher. She always helped her students and was a wonderful person inside and out.

Marketing teacher, Mrs. Smith topped the charts the eleventh grade favorite teacher. She made her classroom environment fun and exciting but still teaches every lesson successfully.

Juniors Petter Mboh, Amy Escherich and Erin Ostrovechy enjoy social time outside in the parking lot.

Sisters share everything! Sisters Maria (junior) and Stine (freshman) Arvik said, "We love to cruise around in our red hot 2000 Pontiac Firebird, its espially nice when its warm out and we can take the T-top off."

Bobcats: Start Your Engines!

How did it really feel to be able to drive to school? Students looked forward to being able to drive, and especially the privilege to driving. "The best part about driving in school was... not having to wake up real early in the morning to catch the bus," said junior Cody Travers. There was no more waiting for the bus in cold weather.

There were no more icy cold bus seats that took forever to warm up and no walking to or from the bus stop. It was like a dream come true.

Junior Erin Ostrovechy said, "The best part of driving is getting to make fun of everyone who can't!"

With a purely elective junior class and no seniors, few Bobcats were old enough to drive.

Junior Sarah Levin said, "I love how empty the parking lot is so I can park right up front." She was parked so close to the school it took only a few steps to get inside.

Juniors Ramin Chehreh and Peter Mboh said, "The best part about driving is blasting music in the parking lot." Ramin added that "There is nothing better than getting in my car and blasting Hilary Duff."

Junior Stefan Sakowsky said, "There is not even a quote to describe how great driving is."

The American Ford was the junior class's favorite car, with the Mustang being the favorite model. Chevrolet came in at a close second. Some of the other favorites were Nissan, Honda and BMW.

It was not always easy to remember to turn the lights off for Peter Mboh. Jason Reed and David Hemma were always there to help jump start Ramin Chehreh's 96 Acura Integra, Junior Stefan Sakowsky's pride and joy is his Acura TL.

Spirit Week

Spirit week had finally arrived for Battefield students, and they lived it up to the max! Monday was "get up and go day" or more commonly known as PJ day! Almost everyone participated, "It was one of the best school days ever!" said junior Laura Schafer (picture on right). Tuesday was twin day, driving teachers crazy with all the matching students. Wednesday was when everyone showed their true colors! Wacky Wednesday the halls were filled with guys dressed like girls, girls dressed like guys and just about everything in-between! Friday was class color day; freshman wore black; sophomores rocked silver; and, juniors sported purple all the way through the pep rally.

Juniors Brandon Utz and Colin Deitrich show their style on wacky Wednesday by dressing up like girls!

Sophomore Kim Davis sports cartoon coverd pants on pajama day!

Juniors Dana Dobsen and Isabelle Schumaker were wacky princesses for the day.

It's the trash bag man! Junior Isaac Shields didn't have go far to find this stand out costume for Wacky Wednesday!

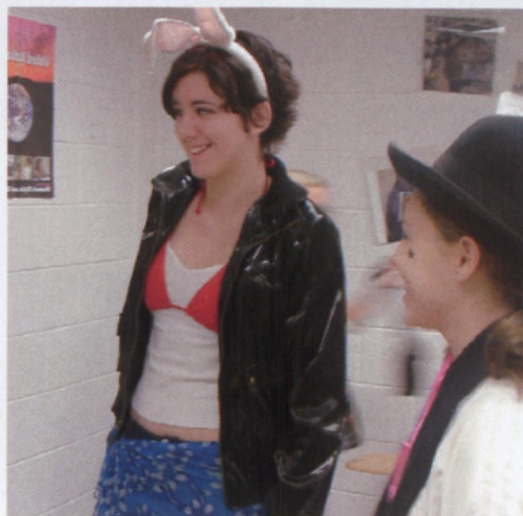

We Got Spirit How 'Bout You?

Freshmen wore their own design of shirts for class color day accompanied by junior Jonathan Rezadoost.

Junior Brant Hansen dresses up like Hannibal Lector for Wacky Wednesday!

Junior Jason Reed dressed up as a hunter and he even had the burping part down!

Debutante- The First Fall Ball

Everyone looked forward to the first dance. It was the talk of the school for weeks and finally the fanciful night came. At the beginning students were very anxious to see what all their friends were wearing and got into groups to compliment each other's impeccable taste. Sophomore Katelyn Crouse said, "The dance was better than most people thought it would be. The DJ's did a great job of not playing the same thing over and over." Sophomore Amanda Ours added, "When I actually got to the dance it seemed like it would be boring but as time went by I ended up having a great time!" Most students seemed to feel this way and had plenty of stories to share the next school day.

Onlookers watch as sophomore Michael Iwanga breaks it down on the dance floor.

Top right: Sophomores Tracy Troy and J.J. Garrell swaying to the music.

Freshmen prince Corey Thacker and princess Rachel Robbins dance to the beat. The night was full of crazy fast dancing and intimate slow dancing.

Sophomores Greg Turner, Sara Mathis, Bethany Dodero and Brendan Shaw have a good time dancing together.

Crowd pleaser, sophomore Dan Cho amazes everyone with his unbelievable dance moves.

Junior Laura Schafer and her mutt, Sadie, celebrate Christmas. "My dog is very unique. She honestly thinks she's human. If you ask her to tell you about her day she'll sit back and howl at you. She also likes to give hugs, when asked or if she doesn't feel like she's getting enough attention."

Junior Ellyn Willis and her horse Billy are out for a fox hunt. "My horse is such a prankster. When we're out in the pasture and I come over to get him back in the stall, he'll stand still until I'm five feet away from him, then move and come around behind me and tap my shoulder with his nose."

Junior Katie Hedrick loves her dog Charlie. "Charlie is only three months old and he is so hyper. All he does is run around the house and bark all the time because all he ever wants to do is play, even while I'm trying to do my homework."

Junior Brianna Byrd with her two horses Logan and Lucas says, "My family rescues horses, and I compete and do shows so my horses take up any free time I have, but it's a lot of fun."

Pet Shop

It was always nice to come home to someone who wasn't going to judge you. That's why most people had pets.

Even though they could be a bit weird, students still loved their pets. Junior Keturah Asgari was a perfect example. "My dog is almost robotic. He has an on and off switch. If I say 'bite me,' he does; 'kiss me,' he does just that. If I say sleep, he lays down, right there, and closes his eyes."

Another case of rarity came with junior Shannen Smerbeck. "Something must be messed up in his head because whenever my dog breathes, he sounds like a pig snorting."

Everyone knew animals did it, but most students had never had to witness it. Junior Cansu Kaptan was another story though. "My birds are in my room and one morning, when I woke up, I looked over at their cage, because I heard something, and they were mating! It was really weird."

Left: Junior Leesa "Denise" Cooper enjoys her dogs Halo and Sisley. "I love my dogs equally but they don't exactly love each other. Halo's a puppy and wants to play all the time but Sisley is smaller and older and doesn't like it too much."

Cansu Kaptan's notorious birds. "I don't really have names for them. I just call them pretty bird or whatever I feel like."

Bobcat Siblings Together!

Can you imagine seeing your annoying siblings 24 hours a day? Well, some Bobcats got to see their siblings all day at home and at school!

Attending the same school with a sibling may have had some negative effects, but most of the time Bobcats felt more comfortable attending the same school with their siblings. "Attending same school with my sister is okay," sophomore Emily Tiefenbrunn said, "it can be annoying but it's nice most of the time because she is there for me."

Especially for the freshmen, their siblings in a higher grade were helpful because they had their "back," and they didn't have to wake up early to ride crowded yellow school buses. "Attending same school with my sister can be sometimes a good thing like when she drives me to school, and I don't have to wake up early," said freshman Heung Chan Oh.

However, for the juniors, it didn't seem that special. "It doesn't really make a difference. We just see each other in the hall and say 'Hey!' and that is it!" said junior Shin Lee. "Well, actually I have a same class with my sister, so we can help out each other to study for the quiz and so on."

Siblings in the same school also got to see their sibling's friends. "It's interesting. It gets annoying because my brother's friends come up to me and say 'Hi!' in an immature manner," said junior Heather Klene, "but it is also cool to say 'Hey, that's my brother!'"

Hola! In Spanish III and IV combined class, junior Sarah and Emily Tiefenbrunn hang out together after their last class of a day.

Eat! Eat! Eat! Junior Blair and freshman William Knarr eat lunch together!

Lucky Bobcats like freshman Jae and junior Shin Lee who drove to school got to sleep more than others!

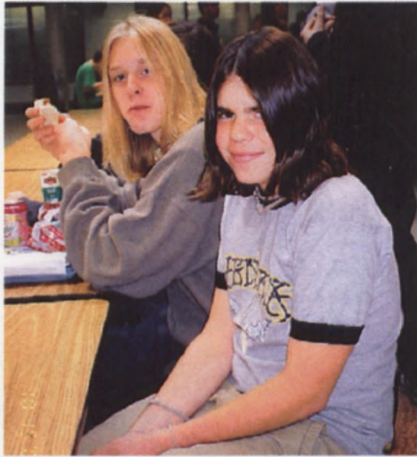

Sometimes sibling can be a best tutor like junior Maria Aruik who is helping her freshman sister Stine with her homework.

Juniors Samantha Olsen and Jason Reed joke around during B lunch,

Sophomores Brogan Callahan and Alex Cloud said, "I'd go in a big truck and pick up chicks, the more the merrier."

*First Date
Tips, Thoughts, and Ideas:*

Sophomore
Austin Issac

"It's like riding
your bike on a carousel in the opposite direction..."

Junior Dallas
Duncan

"I'd take her to a party on the mountain."

Junior Junior
Alban

"I'd take her to
Burger King,
then to Target...
make her buy me
something, then go to the local Food Lion."

First Date?

"Where would you go for a first date?" Anthony Giordano (06') said, "I enjoy taking my ladies to a candlelit dinner and then drive 3 hours to Virginia Beach to walk on it, then ask for gas money."

Corey Nicholson (08') said, "I would take a girl to Chuckie Cheese then to Goodwill for some good shopping!"

Simpler dates were more popular like David Rutledge (06'), "I'd take my date to a dinner, a movie, and then out for ice cream."

Jason Reed (06') said, "Bowling, that way you can get to know her and if things don't work out you can still have fun."

Matt Klumpp (06') tried to spice up his answer with a few pauses then said, "Laser Tag."

Austin Issac (07') said, "I'll take her to Exxon and buy her all the Mountain Dew's she wants."

"I would go to the playground... because I'm wierd like that," said Maria Arvik (06').

"I like going to baseball games," said Katelyn Crouse (07').

"A night of Pickleetta fun!" is what sophomores Laura James and Rachel Mosunmade responded.

Juniors crowd over the lunch table and enjoy talking, sharing lunches, and goofing around.

Junior Colin Callahan

"Pickle Bobs"

Junior Danielle Murray

"I'm totally not for dating, its way overrated..."

"I'd take her to the fanciest McDonalds around, order off the Dollar Menu, share a McFlurry, put two straws in it for dessert, and dance to the cheesy music...It's perfect!"

Sophomore Jackie Fendrock expresses her opinion of the choice of swimming to running. Was there a contest to see how long she can hold that wrapper on her forehead?

Fiesty junior Samantha Olsen is the last person one would imagine to admit that, "I can shoot guns..." Interesting.

Freshman Trei Wheeler strums his guitar for his classmates while attending the Battlefield Renaissance Festival.

Nicely dressed football player and future artist, sophomore Devon Harris takes a break from chowing down to start a new sketch project.

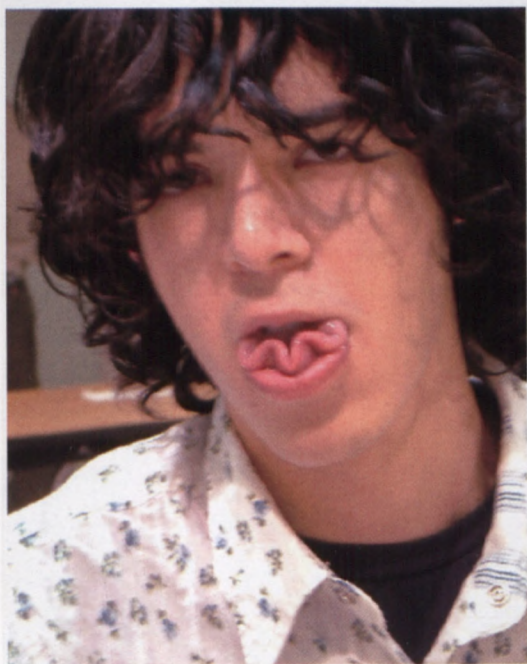

Talent Search

Expecting the unexpected; Battlefield's halls were filled with a variety of interesting facts about the individuals who roamed them. Typically seen as the class clown; no one would imagine that sophomore Devon Harris would admit; "I love to draw, nobody would see me as an artist."

Think that the most active athletes can conquer the world? Sophomore bionic woman Jackie Fendrock, said that if water was involved, she would fail miserably. "I love to go four wheeling. Yet I can't swim. I have trouble with all those non-running sports."

Even Katelyn Crouse, soccer extranior, had a secret love of dirt-biking. "I had to learn the hard way, through realizing my mistake of wearing shorts while riding, to just being seen as the "little girl" rider."

Everyone at one point has felt like a freak of nature. Don't worry, the Bobcats could have easily hold a competition among themselves. Like sophomore Caitlyn Reynolds who could wrap herself into a human pretzel, or fellow sophomore Rachel Rogers who stated for the record that she, "can purposely knock my hip out of joint." Eek.

Junior Nick Collins displays his unique tongue abilities.

Junior John Jay folds his ears into an elflike point then lets them pop out drew attention from the fellow lunch goers.

Partners in Crime

Students had to leave friends behind to come to a new school, but many Battlefield students came together to form unbreakable bonds between friends. Junior Maria Arvik said, "I hate not having my best friend at school anymore, I miss her a lot!" Best friends were so much more than someone who you could just talk to. Sophmores Caitlyn Reynolds and Rachael Mosunmade said, "Best friends are those that you can have all night conversations with that are about absolutely nothing. Those who can share your sarcasm with, and never run out of inside jokes. Where you can just say a word and you both burst out into hysterical laughter, while the rest of the world looks at you with those "they're crazy" looks. Real best friends care less." "Best friends are the ones who know your entire family and know all of your secrets!" says Freshman Leah Maddox. Best friends are there no matter what.

Junior Jimmy Cottrill and sophomore Patrick Bietzell have gone through many high school experiences together already!

Freshman Scott Donaldson and William Sundborn meet up in the lunch room to share a conversation about their weekend plans.

Sophmores Rachael Mosunmade and Caitlin Reynolds share a night out right before homecoming.

Sophomore Katherine Zablonksi and Junior Andrew Patterson share a hug in the cafeteria at the end of a long day.

Juniors Collin Deitrich, Stephen Spaulding, Stefan Sakowski, Ramin Chehreh, Cody Travers, and Peter Mboh get together and have fun before the Fall Ball.

Junior Colleen Thamm tells her accomplice Sarah Fening a secret. Most best friends share secrets with each other for laughs later on especially about their weekends.

Sophomores Chelsea Hood and Bruce Cinibulk have become rather close friends ever since they met each other this year.

Bouncing Back In Time....

Hear ye! Hear ye! All Battlefield Bobcats! The first annual Freshman Renaissance Fair was held this year at the enclosed cafeteria. Students learned a lot of interesting facts about the Renaissance time period, and even learned a few dances! "Renaissance Fair was a great way to combine history and English together.." said, freshman Anna Bruno. Each student was given a specific role during the fair: some were voted king and queen, others were given the role of jesters, servants, and peasants. During the fair, a huge feast consisting of a vast variety of foods from the 1400's time period was served. Of course the the king and queen got to eat first! "There was so much food that we couldn't eat it all!" said, freshmen Lindsay Walton. Overall, the freshmen had a lot of fun but also learned about how life was lived in the 1400's.

Freshmen Kristen Dively and Laura Jacavious makes a toast as the king finish's his speech.

Freshmen Bryan Whitford provided entertainment for the king and queen by playing his guitar.

Freshman Natalie Connell played the guitar as the others listened and laughed.

In long dresses, freshmen Morasa Shaker and Jacki Kirchner display their ladylike fashion at The Renaissance.

Freshmen Agyeman Bonsu, Cody Hassan, Waleed Ahmad, Zane Sampson, Luke Persian, and Tristan Kirkman gather around the table to play a game of cards. Students were reminded there were no TV's or computers in the 1400's!

Freshmen Caitlin Maat, Grace Dryden, and Kaitlyn Sileo break from their busy job of serving the king and queen.

Boys!

When the boys of the Battlefield hallways were asked what they would do if they were a girl for a day, the real divas, drama queens and shopping addicts showed their true colors. "I would shave my legs, marry an old rich guy, and ride my new horse!" said sophomore David Goldberg in response to the question. This contributed to a few laughs around the gym area.

While many guys polled pulled a Brittany Spears by stating they would get married. Other guys were ready to get down to business and find out what girls are all about! "Have a pillow fight at my sleepover!" freshman Chris Bonatucci, explained his fantasy, while an anonymous male said, "I would find out their deepest darkest secrets!"

Other guys chose to take the more feminine response. Junior Jesse Glorius said, "I would go shoe shopping!" "I would put on lots of makeup!" exclaimed freshman Derek Stephens. Last but certainly not least in a more feminine response, Brian Turner topped the charts with his not so secret desire, "I would wear really tight pants!"

The guys, Daniel Edwards, Brian Albrecht, and Chris chow down on cookies at a sophomore class meeting.

Junior Johnathon Rezadoost plays it cool in class.

Ronnie Smith kids around on the bus on the way home from school.

Girls!

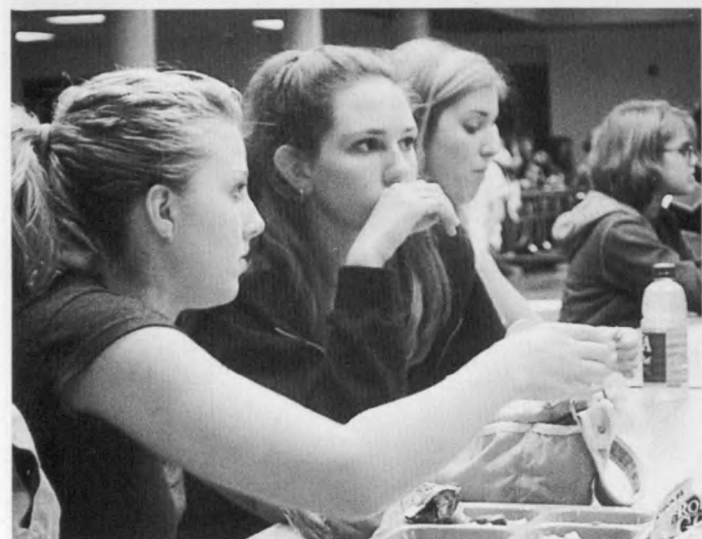

Next it was the girls turn to reveal all. "Join the football team," sophomore Anna Gochenour who chose the masculine path. Junior Sarah Proferes joined along with Anna with her statement, "I would get into a fight."

Sophomore Kim Davis decided she would spend her day in a comfortable outfit, with much enthusiasm she explained, "I would walk around in nothing but boxers!"

"I'd go shopping to show all the guys how a REAL guy dresses, clean cut and hot!" replied Lyndsey Dauble, who jumped at the chance to show guys how its done!

Last of all, the thing that was on all girls minds was what are the guys thinking? Well, sophomore Shanae Harris said "I would hang out with 'my boys' to see what us guys say about us girls!"

Sophmores Katelyn Crouse, Caitlyn Reynolds and Julie Wood act out the Tom Cruise skit in Risky Business!

Watch out these girls are drivers now! Sophmores Kim Davis, Emily Flynn, Jackie Fendrock, and Anna Gochenour represent the girls for drivers ed class.

Junior Nicole Heath was known for her interesting conversation during lunch.

"I would pull a Tom Cruise in Risky Business and slide across the floor with a broom in work socks and tighty whiteys!" said sophomore Julie Wood.

Lynk It Together

There were multiple high schools that combined with one another to create the Battlefield High School student population. Junior Sarah James said, "After that start of the new opening of Battlefield, students became friends and began to start traditions and put their all into making Battlefield feel like home."

Many problems arose when building the school and even after it was completed, but it all was put together in the end. Some students felt lonely and unsure about going to some random new school without any seniors or high school experience. Even the students who grew up in the Prince William County area weren't quite sure what to expect.

Matt Clem, a junior said, "With two weeks left in the first quarter and finally feeling comfortable in my new classes, I was switched out of four of my classes and both of my lunches. It was just like starting all over again. The good thing was that I made more friends in those two weeks than I had since the first day of school."

In the long run everyone collaborated to join together and make Battlefield High School "the place to be." After many struggles and situations people ended up being the best of friends and loving this school as much as their last one.

Enthusiastic sophomores: Alyssa Perez, Caitlin Cheney, Caitlyn Reynolds, Katherine York, Page Moorefield, and Julie Wood, work together to count the money that was collected for school spirit links. The hard part was having to count penny after penny!

Freshman Emily McLaughlin worked hard to control the camera for the morning announcements. Emily dressed up for Wacky Wednesday and showed her school spirit. She also got many of the other TV production students, that were soon to be on air, in focus and ready to work.

They joined together at the first pep rally to support all the fall sports teams. The JV Football team worked together after losing 3 games to win 7 games in a row. They practiced, practiced, and practiced some more and eventually all the hard work paid off.

All classes worked together to compete in the hall competition between the juniors, sophomores, and the freshmen. Students even stayed after school to create the best hallway decorations. But in the end, the Sophomores put there all into decorating the halls and won the hall decorating competition.

In an effort to create a segment for the morning TV show, 3rd period class unites to say the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

Before school even started, the band practiced in preparation for the banner cutting ceremony. They took time out of their summer to practice as much as possible, so when the school was presented they would be right there to prove that Battlefield had an excellent band.

SCA officer, freshman Robert Berriz, dressed up with his friends, Alisa Atwood and Jennifer Shin, on Wacky Wednesday to show his school spirit. He was not afraid to show his sense of humor and just enjoy himself with his friends even though he had the responsibility of being on the SCA.

Amanda Jones, the junior class president helped out by holding the spirit links at the first pep rally. The juniors won the contest between the classes and the trail of purple spirit links wrapped around the gym.

Being the SCA advisor, Mr. Schelzo is very organized and is known as the SCA "Memo King." Mr. Schelzo was very involved with the SCA elections, the Fall Ball and other SCA oriented events.

Students of all classes were called down to swarm into the auditorium for the SCA elections. The final results and decisions were made and Jonathan Rezadoost, Amy Crider, Sarah Fenning, and Colleen Thamm were voted as the schools overall SCA officers. Amanda Jones, Corey Teates, Katie Fulweller, and Jennifer Yang took over the Junior class. Julie Wood, Alyssa Perez, Chelsea Hood, and David Herbeck were voted as the sophomore class officers. In the end freshman officers were also chosen, they were Bridget Raden, Robert Berriz, Jamie Zimmerman, and Alisa Atwood.

Student Body President, junior Jonathan Rezadoost made rubber band bracelets with his campaign slogan on them, "Rez 4 Prez" to attract support from the student body for his election.

LEARNING TO LEAD

The year kicked off with a variety of candidates running for office for both their own class and the entire student body. Out of all these candidates, a select few were chosen to represent the student body of the brand new high school. September 10th started the campaigning for the candidates and they hung up posters with campaign slogans on them. Some candidates even passed out candy and campaign products to try to gain support from students. Junior Amanda Rudolph passed out hundreds of cookies, that she made herself, to win voter appreciation. Then finally the election day came and each contender got up on stage to give his or her speech. Most of the candidates were nervous, but their nerves were eased once juniors rose to shout and make silly faces at the runners.

SCA Representatives left to right: sophomore Chelsea Hood, sophomore David Herbeck, sophomore Caitlyn Cheney, sophomore Rachel Mosumade, sophomore Caitlyn Reynolds, junior Katie Fulweller, junior Lauren Rayburn, junior Jonathan Rezadoost, junior Sarah Fenning, junior Amanda Jones, junior Corey Teates, junior Jennifer Yang and sophomore Alyssa Perez.

Junior Sarah Fenning, freshman Jessica Goings, juniors, Amanda Rudolph, Colleen Thamm, Mark Criscuolo, and Johnathan Rezadoost get prepared to give their opening speeches for their new campaigning careers. They all seemed to be a little nervous, but they made the best of it by keeping smiles on their faces.

Sophomores Andrea Escolero, Yajaira Mejia, and Kevin Barrientos, showing their class spirit by wearing silver and cheering the class on, hoping they would get the spirit stick.

Being their first year at a high school pep rally, the freshmen were excited to show their new found spirit. Taking up half of the gym and trying to be as loud as possible, the freshmen still weren't able to make enough noise to win the spirit stick.

Having had experience in the pep rally scene, the sophomores brought noise makers and made t-shirts that stated "I'm not just perfect, I'm a sophomore" as well as "Kiss me, I'm a sophomore". The sophomores stayed late each night after school to work on their amazing hallway but still weren't able to cheer over "them juniors" to get the spirit stick.

Pepping It Up

All day the school felt like it was going to explode and at 1:05, it did! The energy in the gym was an amazing whirlwind of screaming and cheering students. The spirit in the gymnasium, at the first pep rally, was deafening. "It was great to see the whole school showing their spirit. Everyone participated and made the first pep rally an unforgettable experience," said junior Katelyn Fullerton.

The crowd acknowledged each team with supporting cheers. Sophomore Katy Callahan said, "I was on the cross-country team and it was pretty cool being recognized for all our hard work this season."

Both dance teams and the cheerleaders did a great job entertaining the crowd and it showed. The applause and roar following each number shook the foundation.

Junior Matt Clem was completely astonished by it all. "The first Battlefield pep rally was the best pep rally I've ever been to. I went to the Football State Championship winning high school, Westfield. Our pep rallies were full of games and class competition and it was all sitting down and watching the whole time. Here, everybody, excluding the freshmen, were standing up chanting, screaming, stomping, and cheering the whole time. There was more excitement for a 6-3 JV football team at a brand new school than there was for the state champions, at a school with an incredulous legacy."

Juniors Mark Criscuolo, Johnny Bell, John Jay, and Kim Jones trying to be as loud as possible. The junior class blanketed a small section of the gym with a sea of purple. Even with their small numbers, the junior class managed to win the spirit stick. Cheering and stomping they added to the scene by doing the wave.

Cheerleaders practiced for weeks to perfect their performance for the pep rally. With amazing gymnastics skills and perky attitudes the cheerleaders put on a great show.

A new dance entered the scene at the pep rally. The Hip-Hop Dance Team showed us their urban flair by dancing to "Lose My Breath" by Destiny's Child. The team worked hard most days after school and put on an eye-catching, show-stopping performance.

The band rocked the gym with their award winning Bobcat spirit. If it had not been for the band, the pep rally wouldn't have been nearly as spirited.

Lynx to Escape

The students of Battlefield High School found that the weekends were an escape from the pressures of weekly life. Many students went and hung out with friends at parties. Others stayed at home and studied for tests and worked on projects that were due the following week. Some students may have stayed home to just recover from the previous night's outing.

"On the weekend all I do is eat and be lazy and eat some more," said sophomore Chelsea Pastor. The weekends were also a time for everyone to wind down as well as a time to let your brain relax and get away from learning.

"Weekends are for staying up all night and being out late for partying," said sophomore Veronica Hunsburger. All students had a diverse idea of what a weekend should be but either way they were fun.

Junior Lauren Peacock got ready to go trick or treating with her friend, Stefan Sakowski. Even at age 16 they still had fun dressing up and going out on Halloween.

Sophomore JJ Gerrell and junior Kraig Gough show their feminine side for Halloween. At the Halloween party they really let loose and weren't afraid to express themselves.

Sophomore Lindsay Smyers and Junior Sarah James at the HMFSmas Nutcracker 2004 with Sam Loeffler, the drummer of Chevelle. "Not only did we get to meet Sam at the 99.1 stand, we were walking around while Good Charlotte played and Lindsay said, 'Turn around.' Sam and Peter Loeffler were walking behind us and we got them to sign our shirts! The funny thing is he signed with my pen...now it's in a frame," said James.

Sophomore Kendra Dominick (top left) lets loose at a party. Coach Wolfe gave her thanks to the cheerleaders by throwing them a sleepover party at her house. They played many games, watched lots of movies, and had fun making costumes with toilet paper.

At a party with friends, freshman Lauren Butler, enjoys having fun and joking around by sticking a balloon up her shirt. They had fun and had a good time letting loose and showing off your true personality.

Sophomores Katherine Zablonki, Lauren Brewer, Chelsea Hood, and junior Amanda Brown took the other point of view and decided to be guys for Halloween.

Sophomores Shannon Starrs, Danielle Thompson, Veronica Hunsberger, Kendall Graham, Jessica McNeil and Josh Cutchins celebrate and have fun at sophomore Tara Kiser's house for her 15th Birthday.

Juniors

Norwegian exchange student, Linn Therkelsen, participated in Volleyball at Battlefield. Linn said, "I wanted to do something different for a year, improve my English, experience another culture and meet new people." She had never played sports before, but she said, "It's a lot of fun."

Waiting for the festivities to begin, Denise Cooper and Laura Schafer looked for good photo opportunities for the yearbook as dance team members Caitlin Fullerton and Sarah Levin waited for their time in the spotlight. Wearing crowns representing the junior class they sure proved their power by winning the first ever spirit stick.

David Herbak, student and full time baseball player, is no stranger to the Battlefield weight room. Training started well before school, and continued throughout the year. "One has to be bigger, stronger, and faster than your opponent" commented David, on his theory about baseball.

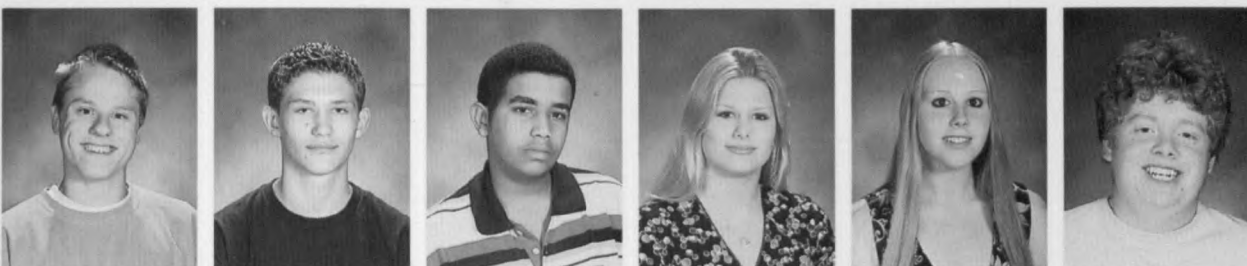

Brian Turner trained year round for the only sport he knew, baseball. He started training halfway through the summer, before school even began. Weight lifting, drills, and speed training were all a part of his daily routine. "I train because I want be ready when the season comes," said Brian when recalling the endless hours spent in the weight room or on the diamond.

Michael Tavani, the leader of EDGE club, had numerous specialties. Along with keeping his grades decent he played the cello and the bass in a band for which all his other band members were also Bobcats. He was also really involved in his church, and sports. He played soccer for VASA and was an avid Frisbee player. Michael commented that, "I would like to see the other EDGE club members grow from our experiences."

The captain of the gymnastics team Anna Gochenour, balanced not only backflipping with grades but Concert Choir and varsity field hockey as well. And whatever little free time she had, was dedicated to lacross and music. This music enthusiast gathered many followers through her numerous teams and activities, including receiving the reigning position of captain. When asked what the hardest thing about being a sophomore was, she flatly commented, "Dealing with the freshman."

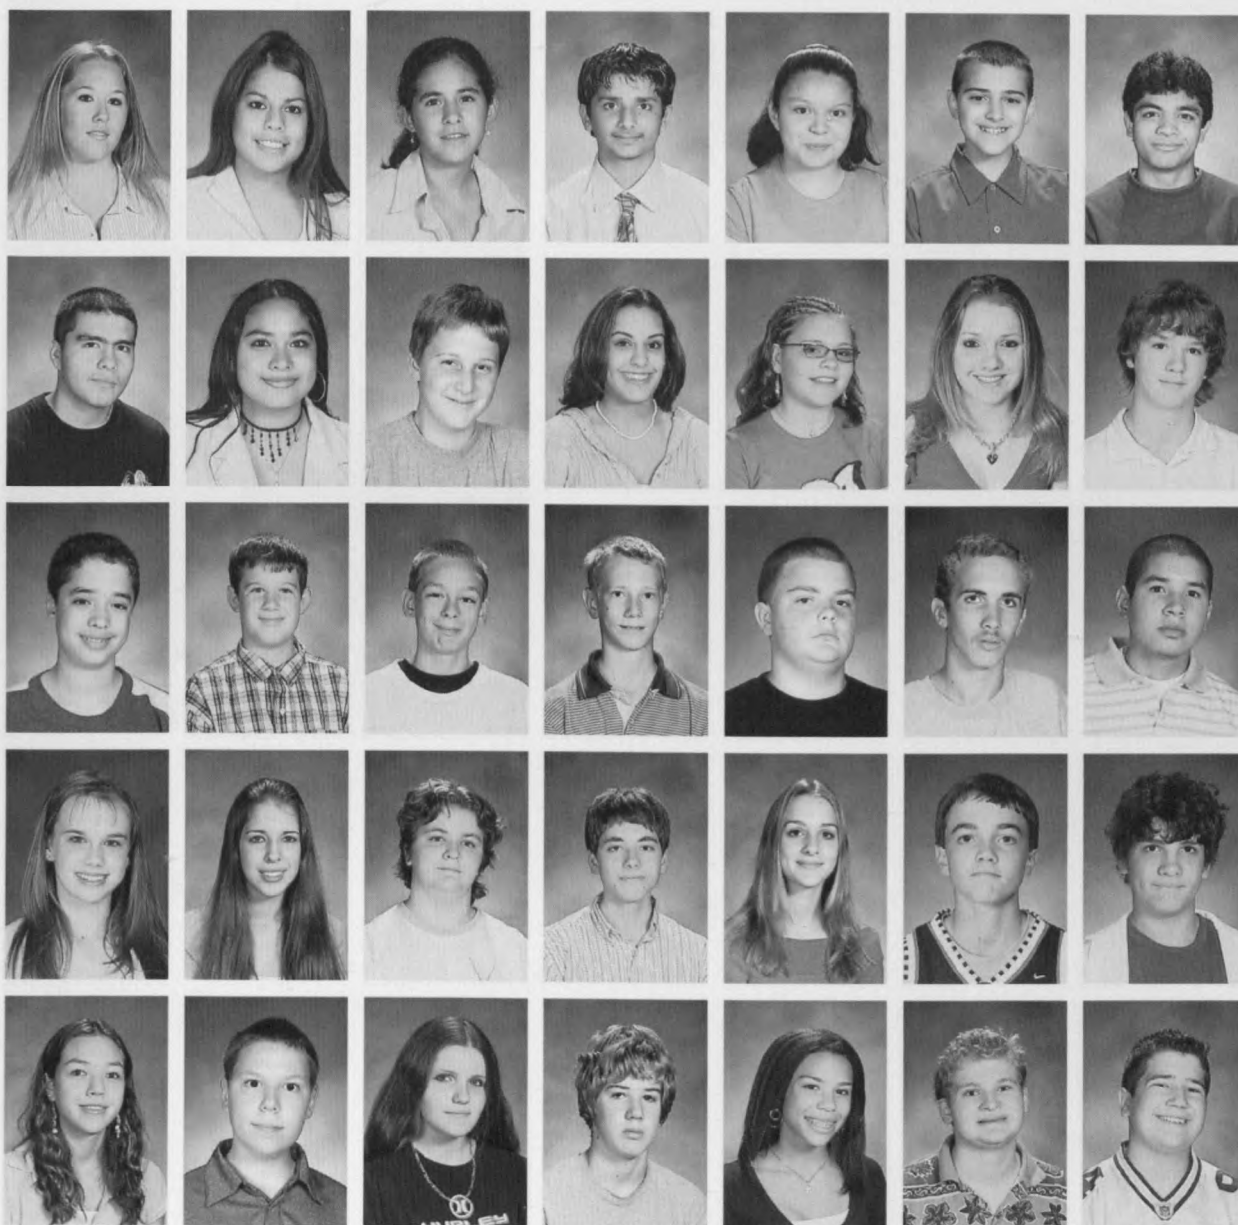

Freshmen

Freshmen showed their new found spirit at the first pep rally of the year, and their first pep rally as high school students. They participated in decorating the halls with ribbon, balloons, and streamers. They also dressed in their pajamas for spirit week, as well as twins on twin day and made sure to wear black for class color day. Then for wacky Wednesday, they stole the spotlight, dressing up as fairies and even farmers. At the pep rally, in hopes to win the spirit stick, they clapped their hands, shouted, and learned to scream loudly.

Renaissance day was a major success for the freshmen. They spent the day, singing, dancing, and eating. Leading up to that day students studied literature and history from the 1400 time period. They walked around all day in Renaissance clothes with smiles on their faces. For one day there were jesters, kings, queens, and princesses walking around the halls of Battlefield!

Farhan Chaudry enjoyed soccer and had been playing it for five years. He said, "I only started playing soccer because I thought it looked fun. Then I started playing with my friends and really ended up liking it. I usually play on House Leagues but I'm getting ready to try out for the school. The last team I was on won the championship two years in a row!"

Josh Dunn was one of the only two bass players in the orchestra. Playing since fifth grade, Josh had become one of the more skilled bass players, and planned to continue playing through his senior year of high school. "I would like to keep playing as a hobby even after I leave high school, and eventually play in a symphony," commented Josh.

Derek Stephens always loved to race his four wheeler. He said, "I've been riding for three years and go to Fredericksburg quite often to race. Once I was out racing with my friend, Brandon, on a wooded course and I was winning. I thought the track went straight so I turned my head to look behind me and see how far behind he was, when I turned my head back around, I flew off the track and smack into a tree."

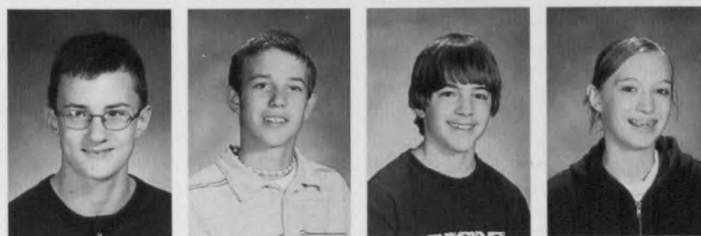

Nathan Hagan loves drama and is quite active with the drama club as well as the play. He said, "When you're on stage, you get to be someone else. It's amazing to think that you can be something you aren't for an hour or more and then go back to being yourself like it was nothing."

SPORTS

OPENING

Bust-A-Move Hip-Hop

Hip Hop was a big part of teen culture and the girls were determined to start a hip hop team. They ran into some difficulties, but they fought the battle until they won it. Most of the teachers and staff were excited to start something new. They thought it was a good way for students to bring up their grades and get to know each other. The girls loved to dance and were always determined to practice and were always prepared for their performances. The students loved having a Hip Hop team at school. The team was a blend of break dancing, stepping and hip hop.

Amanda Johnston said, "I love being on the team it's something different and I love to dance, I hope this goes on forever. Maybe next year other schools will have hip hop teams too and we can compete against them!"

Junior Destiny Washington watches her fellow classmates before showing them her own moves that she learned from being on the Hip-Hop team.

The Hip hop team gets pumped up and encouraged each other to do the best they can.

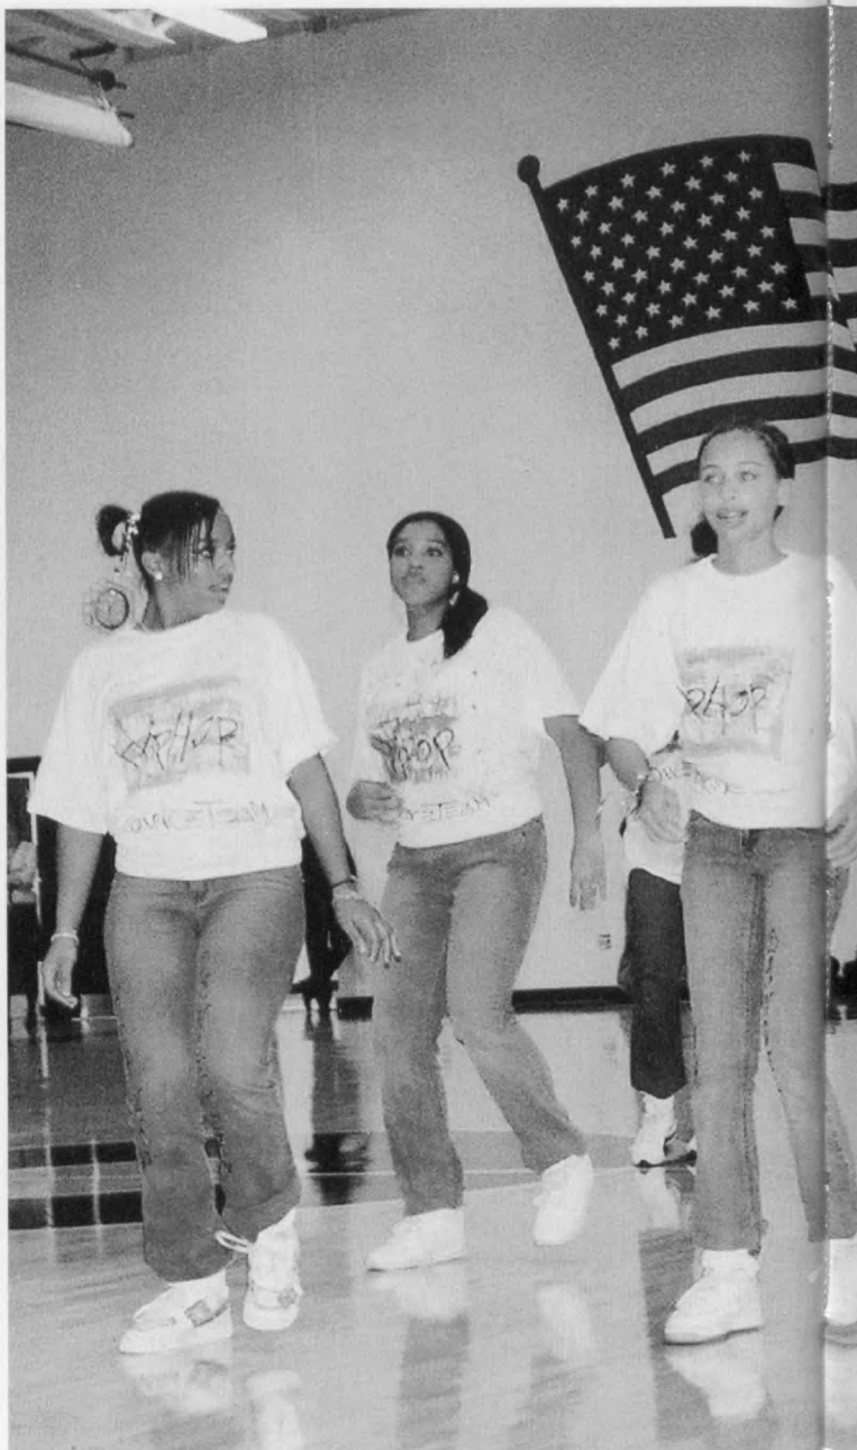

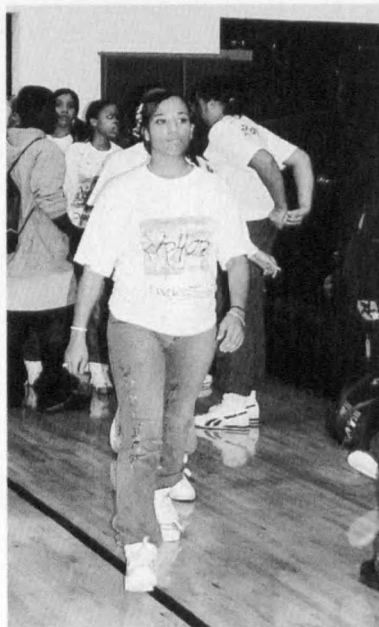

Sierra Briant rushes to get things ready for the fall pep rally, while feeling excited about the first performance of the season.

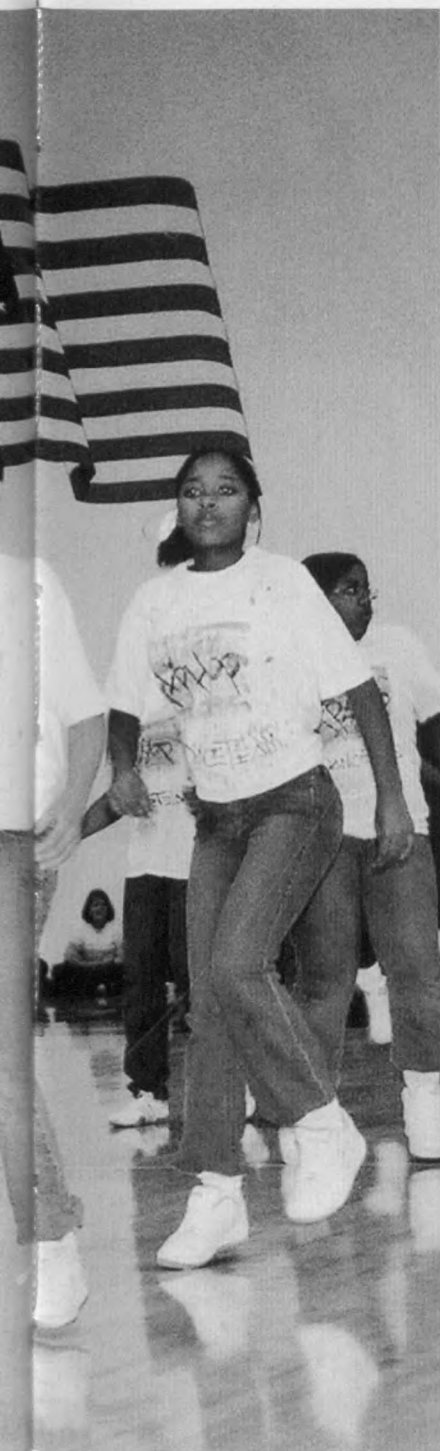

Andrea White said, "I really enjoy having a hip hop team at Battlefield because I have been dancing all my life and I always wanted to be on a hip hop team."

Sierra Briant said, "It is hard being captain sometimes but I enjoy being it."

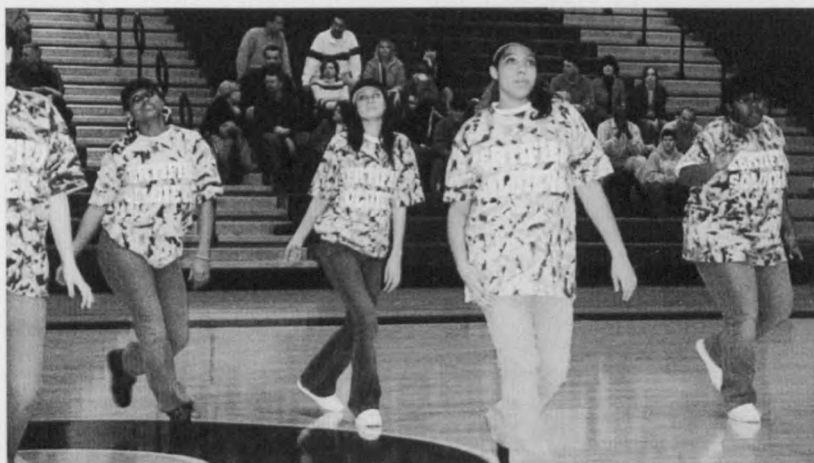

Austin Nivens (aka Mr. DJ) said, "Since I'm the only DJ in the school, I get to do a lot of things in and out of school. I do pep rallies, parties, and I mix for the hip hop team. It's a lot of fun and I get a lot of opportunities."

All the girls worked really hard together but sometimes it became difficult since they choreograph all of their own moves. However, they always overcame their problems. They all shared one thing in common though, they loved to dance, and they were happy to be a team.

Setting the Stage

Austin Bent

"This year was a lot better than last year, we competed and placed."

Stephen Spalding

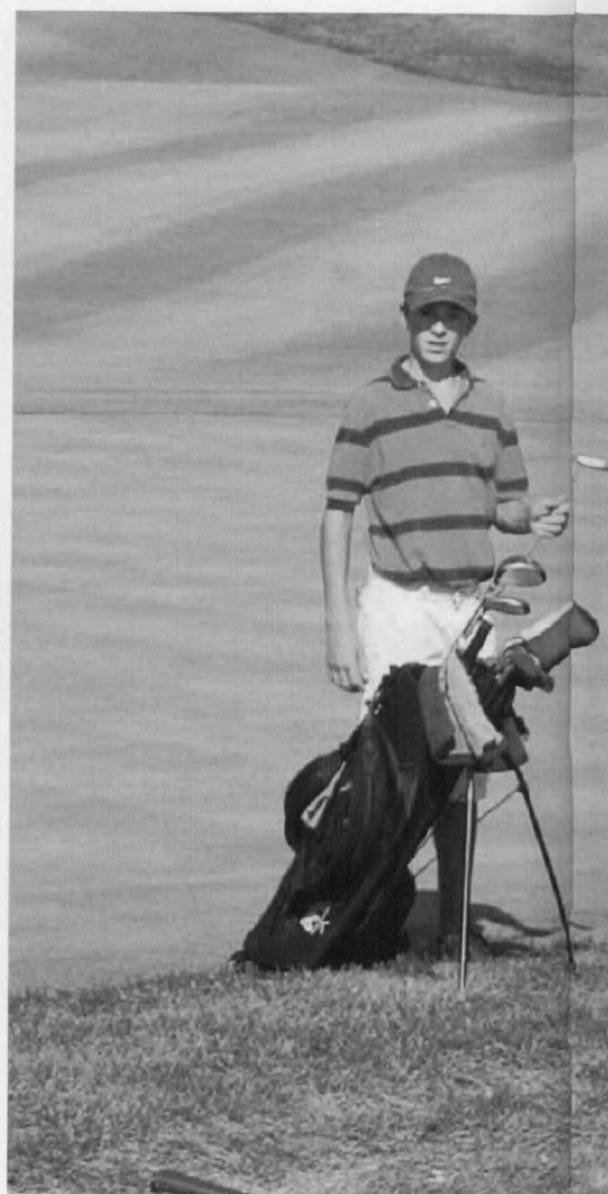

"I am happy that I placed second, it's a good start for the first year."

Golf had a great season finishing with a six-six record, and third place in the district. Junior Stephen Spalding made a name for himself by finishing second in the district with a final score of three over par. Spalding commented, "It was fun being one of the top teams in the district in our first year, and I look forward to next year."

Another talented golfer was the older of the Bent brothers, Austin. "The best part about golf this year was wearing the purple golf shirts," said Bent when asked about the season.

Coach Tillman said, "We'll have the two best golfers in the district next year and I want to see the first district banner hanging in the gym next year."

At the end of the successful season seven out of the fourteen players were lettered for their outstanding performances.

Top: Ms. Rucker, Austin Bent, David Goldberg, Cody Travers, Eric Paris, Evan Scott, and Officer Tillman. Middle: Crystal Carter, Bethany Martin, Lucas Burden, Lucas Burden, Dillon Barker, Stephen Spalding, and Jill Fuerst. Bottom: Caleb Flores, Tyler Bent and Scott Donelson.

Junior Cody Travers creates his own style while on the course.

Jason Driscoll races towards the finish near the 2 mile mark. Driscoll was the number one runner for the season. His best time for 3.1 miles is, 16:17.

The boys wait for the gunshot to start the Wendy's Invitational race in North Carolina.

B Ice a b Ice y

Junior Jason Driscoll was the top runner, he was unstoppable. He broke the course record at Great Meadows and placed 2nd in Districts. The boy's team placed fourth and went on to regionals. Freshman Bobby Duggleby gave some advice for current and future runners, he said, "Don't get shin splints early in the season, coach won't let you run for like four meets. It's crazy! Take it easy when you first start running. Don't pull a Duggleby and try to beat everybody at practice. You can't, trust me!" The girl's team had three sophomores, and five freshmen. They did exceptionally well, considering they had mostly freshmen. Kelly Gass was the star runner on the girl's team. The girl's team placed 1st in Districts and went on to regionals.

The team bonded so well, there wasn't a separation with boy teams and girl teams, everybody got along. The bus rides on the way to meets were part of the fun. The song "Ice Ice Baby" was an inside joke for the girls team. The girls even made a notebook of tips for the new freshmen runners next year. A word of advice from a couple of the team members was, "When you stop for lunch, only go to one restaurant". Kelly Gass, Elizabeth Walls, Natalie Connell, and Eric Hoepker learned that the hard way. They had just eaten at Taco Bell, when they decided to go over to Burger King with 3 minutes left to get on the bus. Needless to say, they were late and Coach Mobley almost left without them. They had an extremely hard practice the next day.

Before the races the girls had a cheer they would say to get them pumped up. During the season, there were quite a few injuries with the girls, Elizabeth Walls, Katy Callahan, and Gabriela Camacho all had hip injuries, Callahan's hip flexor strain cost her the rest of the season. Kelly Gass tore ligaments in her ankle, but came out on top, when she healed. But overall, the Bobcats had a fantastic first season.

Natalie Connell, Kelly Gass, and Jessica Larsen try to keep warm, before their race at the Brentsville Relays.

Katy Callahan, hopes to win the race by driving the school bus across the finish line.

Winners

"Scoring the first touchdown in Battlefield history is my most memorable moment. I give the credit to my coaches and teammates who made it possible," said freshman Erik Patterson.

"The team really came together during the 3 days of camp because of all our hard work," said sophomore Bruce Cinibulk.

After losing the first three games of the season, the team broke through winning the last seven.

According to Coach Cox, "The win against Hylton turned the season around. Hylton is known for having a strong program and to beat Hylton like we did, gave the team a lot of confidence. They realized they could play with anyone." The top defensive players were Matt Garrell, J.J. Thompson, Pat Beitzall, Austin Tuell, and Bruce Cinibulk. The defense only gave up four points a game the last seven games. The top offensive players were Mike Nkwanga, Corey Thacker, Erik Patterson, and Sukhminder Arneja.

"The most important game of the season was the last one against Freedom that we won 26 to 7 because it was against the only junior varsity team that we had previously lost to," said junior Andrew Patterson.

On Thursday, September 30th, the team got their first victory of the season, as 29-12 win against Stonewall Jackson. In the following weeks, the Bobcats went on to defeat Osbourn, Osbourn Park, Freedom, Forest Park and Stonewall once again.

Whether it started with Erik Patterson's first touchdown of the season against Brentsville, or the challenge of five-a-day practices over the summer, the Bobcats winning streak had only just begun.

First Season Freshmen Football and Basketball

The freshmen football and basketball teams had outstanding seasons. The seasons started out rough but finished amazingly strong.

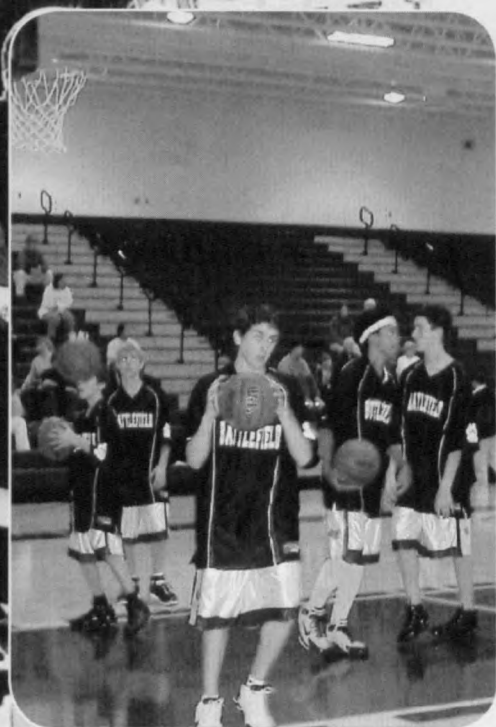

Football lost to Freedom High School in the beginning but improved and were able to beat them in their second game.

Basketball as well had a few losses in the beginning, but after they beat OP they coined the phrase, "pre or post OP," said offensive coordinator coach O'Neil.

Many of the basketball players got bumped up to JV, leaving the freshmen team with fewer players.

This was also a good thing because players got a chance to take on more leadership roles than they usually would have.

Coach O'Neil also said that "they never gave up and were willing to learn and to give everything they had" to make it a great season.

How 'Bout Them Freshmen

The Freshmen were the future of Battlefield, and what a better way to be involved the first year than by playing sports. "It was fun to get the first win in Battlefield history [for Basketball]" said Tyler Bent.

Being on a team brought students closer together. "We didn't know what it ment to be a team in the beginning, but we finally came together to win in the end," said David Guzowski. (football)

Bobcat Potential

The team made the Bobcat name one to remember. Ending the season with a six and twelve record, the Bobcat ladies showed their potential to all their opponents. Sophomore Georgia Stoyanov commented, "Even though it's our first year, we're already a threat to most teams. Hopefully, next year we'll be at states!"

Sophomore Sidney Harbold and junior Kristin King led the lady Bobcats as captains through their first season. "We had a good season, but next year we are going to be awesome," said King.

Coach McGregor was very pleased with the girls' first season. The girls team came out with wins over Woodbridge, Dominion, Garfield and victory over Potomac three times.

Junior Varsity

With leadership and team spirit, the junior varsity volleyball team made their first season unforgettable. Sophomores Danielle Thompson, Sara Mathis and Amanda Herrick led the team as captains, and they made sure there was never a dull moment on or off the court. Herrick commented, "All the girls were friends and excluding all the drama, we ended up having a great season." The team finished the season with a total of six wins and twelve losses.

Freshman Jenna Smith and Lisa Costello were the captains of the freshman volleyball team. The season had a slow start, but when asked about the overall season Marianne Mannix recalled, "Our first official win as a team was against Freedom!" Towards the end, the girls really started to get competitive winning four out of five of the last matches.

Matt Augustosky

"We had a rough season but we are going to work hard in the off season to get better."

Shawn Riahi

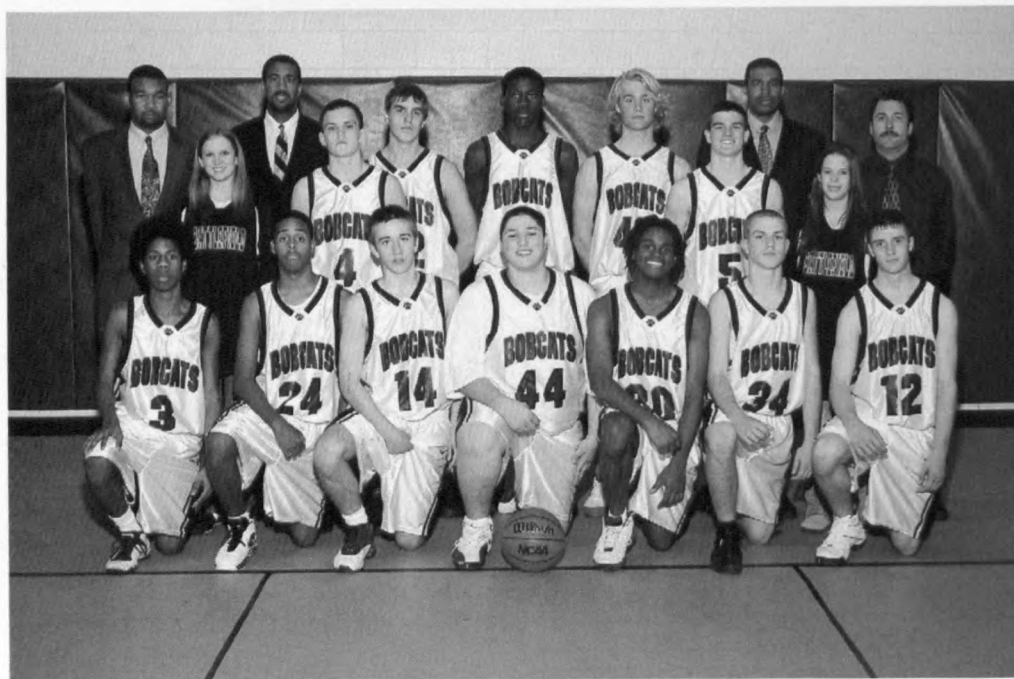

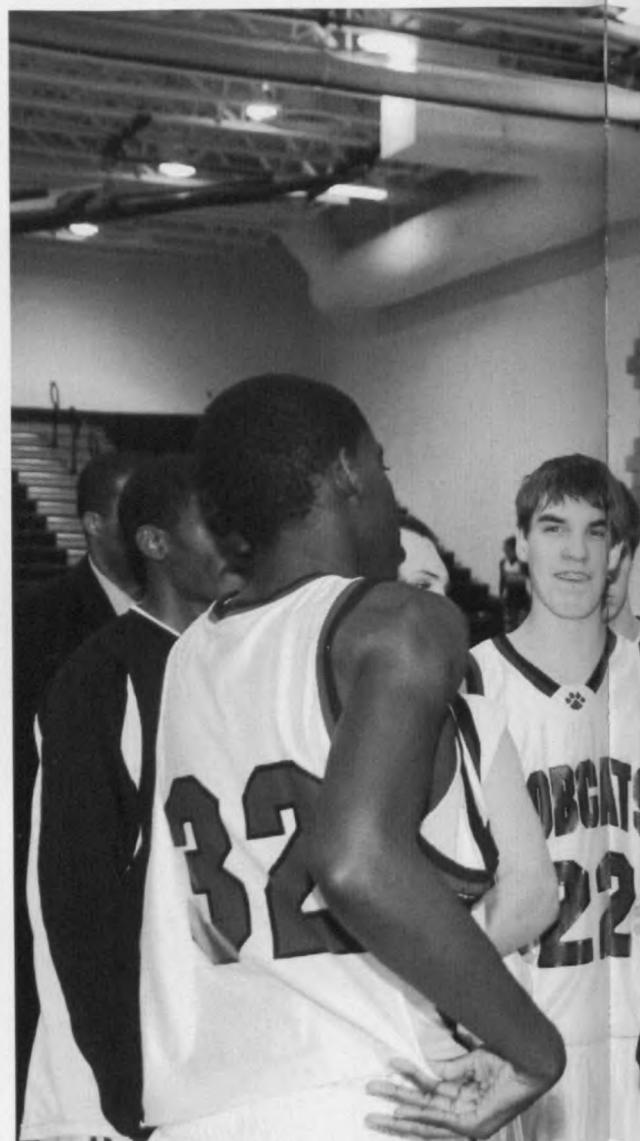

"We had a bad season but it's in the past, so now we have to look to the future."

The Battlefield boys could not quite match up to the other varsity teams in the county, but they set a good foundation to work with for upcoming seasons. The team played against some very competitive teams, and although they didn't win a game, playing better teams only made them stronger.

Freshman point guard Matt Brown left the team early in the season, leaving the team with no point guard and without a captain. Junior Matt Augustosky stepped up to fill Brown's position for point guard, as well as the team captain. "I was never really a point guard, but I tried my best to step in after Matt left," commented Augustosky.

With a new captain and a not so great record, coach Ford was looking to make some team changes. In hopes of helping the team gain more discipline, coach Ford pulled up sophomore Kevin Simkins and freshman Rex Parker from the JV team. If the team could not leave the season with a trophy, coach wanted a title for sportsmanship.

"Probably one of the best parts of our games were the fans," commented sophomore Zack Ward. Every home game, the gym was full of students dressed and ready to cheer on the team, no matter the outcome. The boys always knew even if they didn't bring home a banner, they would always have their fans.

Varsity Girls Basketball

After three hard days of tryouts, the girls were divided into varsity and junior varsity teams. Fourteen girls made the varsity team, and they looked forward to a successful season together.

"Family, commitment, hard-work and defense: these were the concepts we learned this year. Despite the difficult task of starting a new school with a very young team and staring a winless season in the face, the girls hung tough and stayed positive. With only two games left to play their positive attitude and hard work payed off as they shut down Freedom, winning 31-27. Mentally the ladies know what it takes to excel, now they need to put that knowledge to work this spring, summer and fall. If they do, big things will be accomplished in 2005-2006," commented Coach McCaslin.

The girls had a hard season, but after their first win they had a whole new attitude. Sophomore Jill Feurst commented, "After our first and only win, we were so excited! After working so hard throughout the whole season, all the girls and coaches really deserved it!"

As the team started to pull together on the court, they grew closer together off the court as well. Sophomore Veronica Hunsberger said, "All the girls are so close, that we can joke with each other about anything! There has got to be at least a handful of new jokes everyday! We all are just really comfortable with each other."

Coach McCaslin was very proud of the girls at the end of the season, and was glad that they pulled together as a team to accomplish their goals.

Ready To Rumble

Sophomore Pat Bietzel's 04-05 record was 30-17. The highlight of his season had to be when he went to regionals. He dominated the regular season in the 160lb weight class, pinning almost every opponent.

"He is a good wrestler and very dedicated to the sport. He always gives one hundred percent at practice" said fellow wrestler junior Niklas Von Spreckleson.

At regionals he lost a very controversial match. During the match Pat was winning and then he fell on his back for what seemed like only a second. The referee said that he got pinned and that he lost the match. Everyone went crazy.

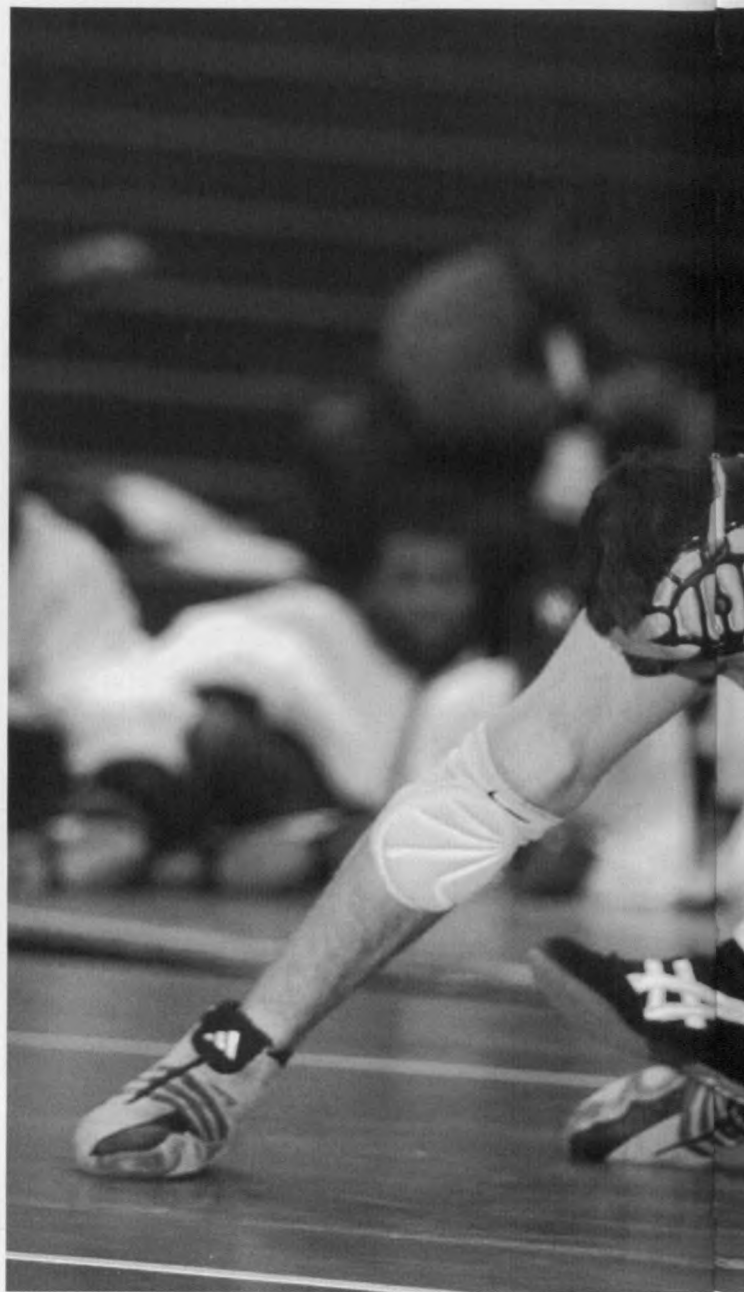

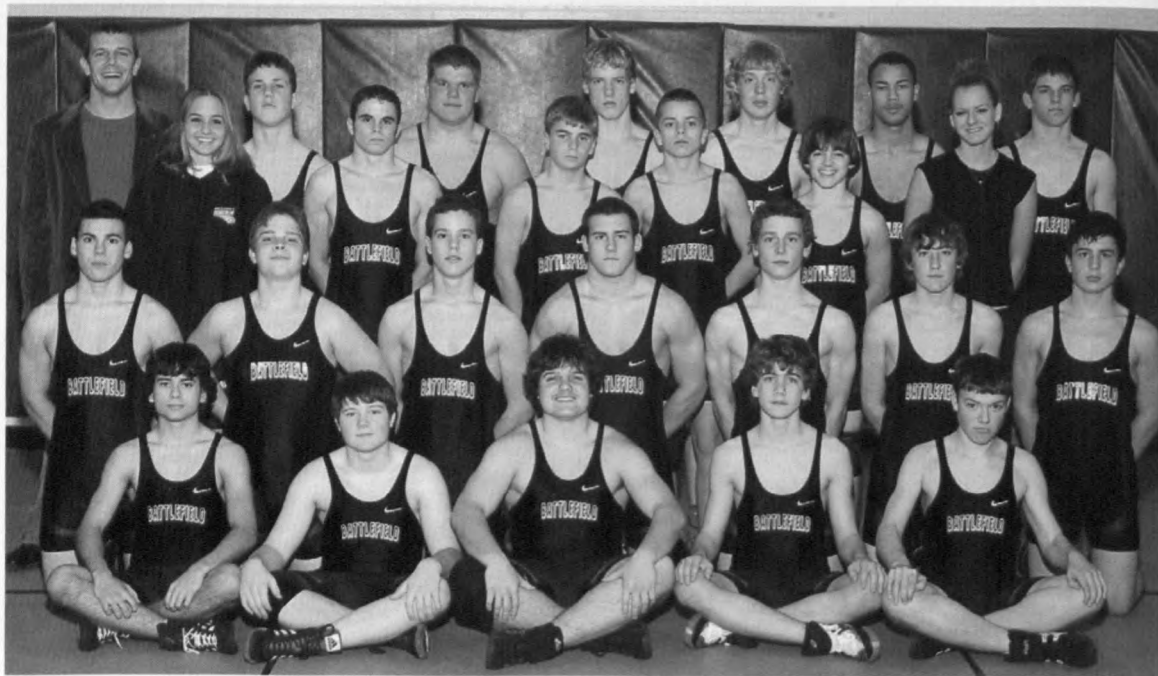

"That match was terrible. I was heated when I lost because I was crushing that kid the whole time. I was only on my shoulders for a second, but, whatever, I hate making excuses. Excuses are for the weak." Pat said after regionals. "I can't wait to get back there next season. I feel like I have something to prove now. Right now I can only wait."

Coach Wilbourn said, "This year I feel success was not measured in victories on the mat, as much as victory in becoming a unit, a team." He also said that the strength of the team was them coming together as a new squad, at a new school, for a single goal; becoming a team." A he said that wrestlers Zach Surface, Zach McCarthy and Daniel Hanlon had outstanding matches.

The Battlefield indoor track team set an excellent precedent for many years to come with their admirable scores and outstanding athleticism. Sophomore Michael Nkwanga, ranked first in the 55m with a 6.84 time, as well as the 300m and 500m with times of 38.44 and 1:10.44. Michael also came out on top winning the long jump event with a 17'9". Nkwanga also participated in the 4x400, alongside freshman Scott Kuhn, Lane Sawyer and sophomore Bobby Herold. They finished the event with an outstanding 4:09.54. In addition to these incredible accomplishments, Michael ran the sprint medley along with juniors Alex Houser, Greg Mannix and Jason Driscoll finishing with a time of 4:02.9.

Junior Jason Driscoll also participated and set records in a wide variety of events including the 1000m, the 1600m, and the 3200m with times of 2:47.39, 4:37.24, and 10:16.0 respectively.

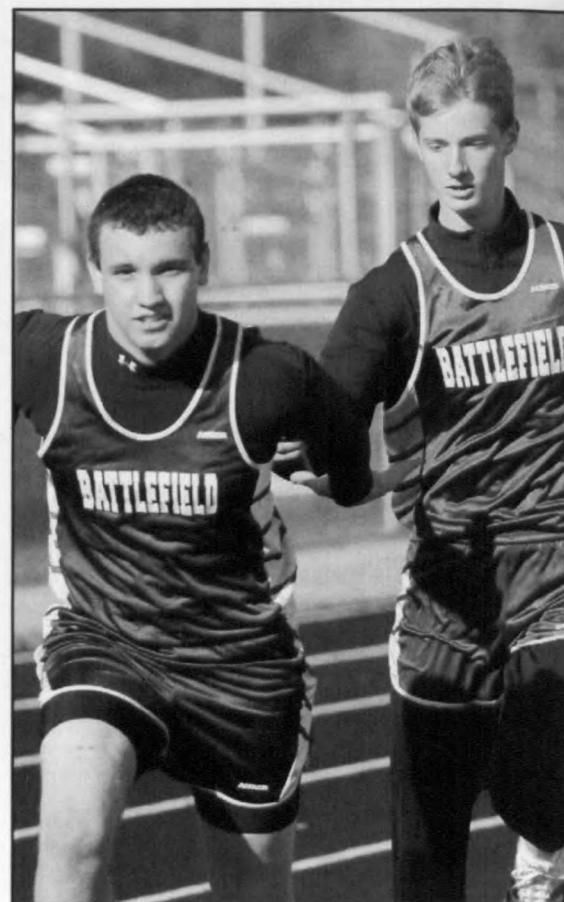

As the season steadily progressed, so did the track members' abilities to compete against some of the more well developed track teams in the county. Freshman Trei Wheeler began the season with a long jump distance of 15'8" at the Stonewall Jackcon meet and ended the season with a 15'10" at the home meet. Freshman Zach Grigsby began the season with a 29'0" for the triple jump and ended with a 32'9" at the district meet.

At the conclusion of the season coach Huddle commented, "Indoor track was a very young team that showed constant improvement. The future is very bright for this young group of men." Indoor track members were very proud of what they had accomplished and were looking forward to a competitive season next year.

Let Me See You One, Two, Flip!

If you were flipping through the air with only one mat under you, would you be scared? Sophomore Chelsea Pastor said, "I always ask everyone who's scared before I go."

All the girls had different settings on the uneven bars. At their last practice before they competed at Osbourn Park Angeleen Speegle and Casey Munson said, "We both moved up to the big girl setting on bars today."

Anna Gochenour said, "The hardest thing about an away meet is fitting the mats on the school bus to go to the other school."

Junior Isabelle Schumaker said, "I spell gymnastics in my own way."

At the Osbourn Park meet, sophomore Page Moorefield placed sixth on vault with a score of 8.7 and sixth on floor with a score of 8.9. She placed second on floor and second on vault, and also placed in the all around at Stonewall. At Districts, Moorefield broke 9.12,5 on beam and at Regionals she scored a 9.1 on floor.

Isabelle Schumaker made it to states on beam. She broke 9.0 on bars. At the Woodbright meet Schumaker placed first on beam with a score of 9.3. She placed first on floor and also placed on vault and all around at Stonewall.

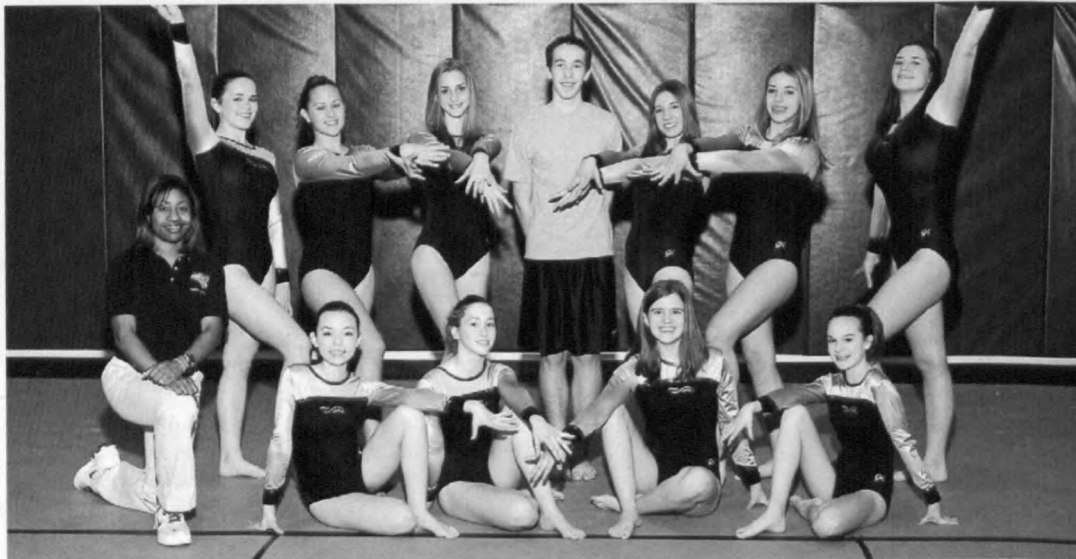

Trying to calm each other down before meets was a team goal. Dealing with nerves was more difficult than even doing the skills- gymnastics was more mental than physical! according to Moorefield.

Swimming

Jessica McNeil

"I was so surprised with the team's effort and improvement."

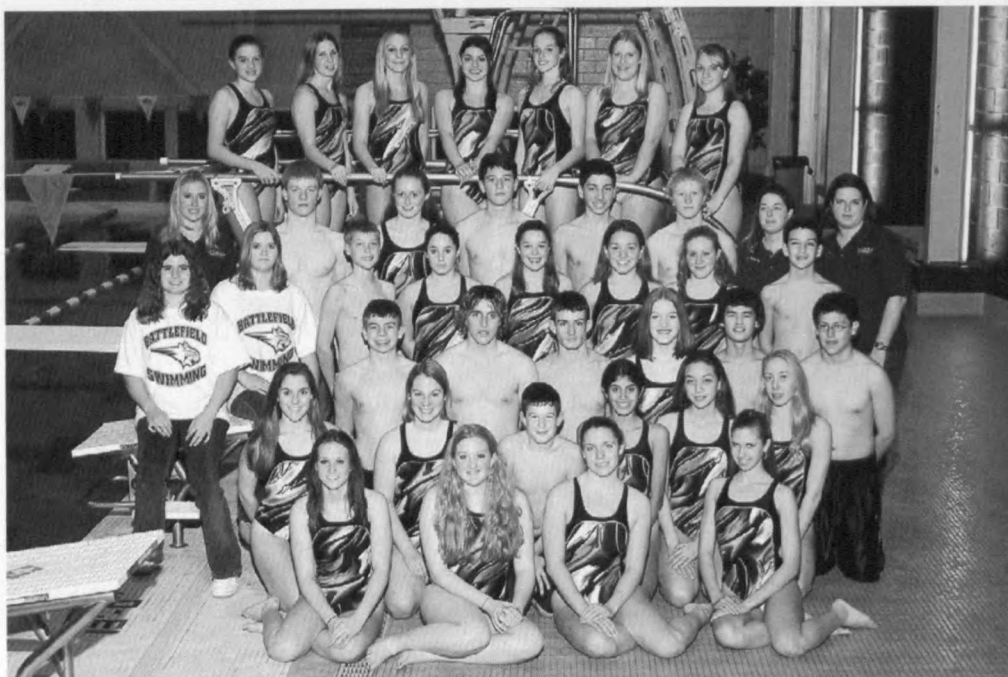

Amy Crider

"We exceeded everyone's expectations, it was a good first year for us."

What an amazing dive for the swim team! Competing against rivals schools, the bobcats broke eight records and set new standards for the future teams. "In swimming I have gotten into shape, improved on my times and have gained many great friendships. We have so many social events for the team which is a lot of fun for us. I've worked on my strokes and it has made a big difference! I will definitely participate in swimming next year!" exclaimed freshman Kaitlyn Sileo already planning her involvement for next year.

Four team members went to the state swim championship, and despite the rough times against more experienced swimmers the bobcats left their paw mark on swim records, linking them to a successful future! Freshman Kristen Brocke said, "Since we are a new school, there is a lot of room for improvement," With eight records and a competitive spirit, it's going to be exciting to see what else they will achieve in the future years. "We swam fast this whole season despite losing because we have fewer swimmers on our team than the other schools."

At the meets there have been more experienced swimmers, yet we had a lot of good times," commented junior Nick Persian. Not only do they swim, these cats had a lot of fun times gaining memories that will last a lifetime! Even if they are embarrassing. "I was standing next to the pool and I slipped off the side and fell into the pool and hurt my ankle," confessed junior Nick Persian. Despite his fall he went on and broke a record himself! With hardships and many astounding wins these cats proved that they like the water!

Field Hockey

In their first season, Bobcat Field Hockey girls were ready to play the game. Losses would not get them down. The progressing team was led by the positive energy of star players, Kristen Norkus ('08) on defense and Sarah Klam ('07) on offense. Kristen would always be right at the post, ready to back our goalie and Sarah was fast and aggressive down the field. "I remember best, during the penalty corners, rushing in from the posts on defense to prevent the offense from scoring. This repeated drill definitely helped us during the season, said junior, Amanda Duggleby. "We were deeply motivated and built up to be the best that we could be in our first year. In years to come, we will be a winning team."

This positive spirit was shared by Dana Dobson, junior, who said "Our spirits were high and there was never a moment we weren't cheering during games and even at practice."

"Cheering in the blistering cold, yelling our hearts out, and cheering the best we could that crazy rainy night; we did an amazing job and pulled together to look great." Said varsity captain cheerleader sophomore Tara Kiser. The night was a hard one for the cheerleaders with pouring rain and freezing cold temperatures. The Cheerleaders got their first use out of their 70 dollar warm-ups. Along with their warm-up use, the varsity cheerleaders got a great pleasure and exciting new experience cheering along side with the JV cheerleaders.

"It was a great treat for all of us." Said varsity cheerleader freshman Lauren Butler. Sporting black as night pants, and fluorescent purple jackets, the cheerleaders got their fans, hyped and ready to go.

"I remember having the best time attempting to cheer, drink hot chocolate, and dance all at once: not as easy as it sounds, but TONS of fun," remarked varsity cheerleader sophomore Chelsea Hood. The night was made complete with battle-field varsity's football players' victory over Freedom High school, on Battlefields' last football game of the season. Hard cheering, by both varsity and JV cheerleaders, a great game, and wonderful fans made what could have been a potentially horrible game and night, absolutely unforgettable.

The varsity squad peps up the crowd with cheering, including their back tuck and backhandspring routine in between quarters.

Sophomore Amanda Ours, gave support to her girls basketball team up against a tough opponent and rival, Stonewall Jackson.

JV Baseball

Throughout the season, the JV team kept their composure on and off the diamond. Long practices with the varsity team, through cold and warm weather, the boys showed their true character and pulled together as a team.

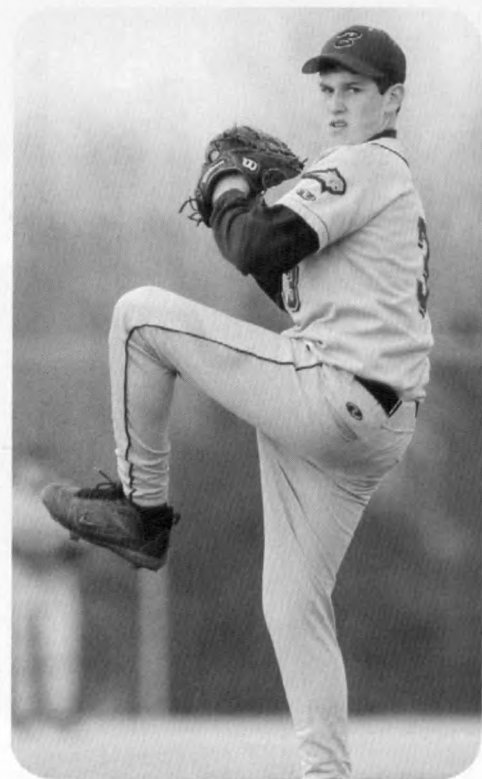

The team's first game was at home against Forest Park. After an eight inning game in the cold weather, the boys lost 8-0. Freshman Danny McDonald threw the first couple innings for the team, and sophomore Andrew Patchen finished up the game.

The JV boys worked with the varsity team every chance they could. There wasn't really a separation in the teams, they were all in it together so the boys learned a lot from each other.

Both coaches were very pleased with the boys progress during the season. Assistant JV Coach Cox commented "Everyday we got out to practice, the guys just got better." and head JV Coach O'Neil commented, "I wanted the boys to come together as team, and be able to use each other talents to make a better team. I think they accomplished that."

Coach O'Neil met at the mound with freshman Danny McDonald, Kyle Brady, Josh Cesario, and sophomore Andrew Patchen to discuss their strategy for the rest of the game.

JV Softball

JV Softball had a tough season. They had to prove themselves to everybody including the Varsity Softball team. The team had to show that they were just as good, if not better.

"The JV Team is really fun. Our coach (Mrs. Torres) is really tight and we learn but have a lot of fun at the same time," said junior Shannen Smerbeck. She played first base for the team.

"I've only played for one year and it was awesome. People think it's an easy sport, but I would like to see some of them try to hit a ball going 60 mph. Developing my immature skills is definitely a benefit," said sophomore center fielder Stephanie Rote.

"I play softball because its such a rush getting the girl out as they are going to first base or even catching the fly ball. Its so exhilarating. Softball is such a fast pace sport that you can't miss a moment of it. My personal benefits are that I'm getting from the team is getting better at third base. I am also learning better batting and bunting skills," said sophomore third basemen Dominique Thomas.

Kickin' it JV Style

Boys and girls decided to play soccer to meet new people; others to stay in shape; but most of all, they came together to play for the game. "I play soccer to stay in shape and it is a fun experience. It was hard getting a starting line up, but the people were all great. With our chant at the beginning of the game stating that we are a family and an awesome performance, we had an awesome season," said Shannon Starrs, starting forward for the girls team.

Not only was soccer a good sport to play, but it was also a great spectator sport as well.

"I enjoy watching soccer because it is interesting. I play soccer out of school with a lot of the players, so I like to come and see how they are doing for the school," said junior spectator David Rutledge.

Standouts for the boys included Caleb Florez and Samuel Osei. Forewards ShannonStars and Alexa Lindsay lead the girls with Valeria Calvano and Chelsea Burke adding strength to the field. The girl's big win over Forest Park fueled the fire for a hot opening season.

Single or Double?

"Upon the days of the tryouts, I embarked on my quest to capture my grail... a spot on the girls tennis team. I felt confident as a knight on a noble quest, both nervous and excited," said junior Hillary McCain.

"I was both confident and nervous at the match against Garfield High School. We all worked hard during practice and we deserved to win. It felt good to go out of the first match and be successful," said junior Miriam Weimer.

The team opened its season by winning against Garfield High School. From tryout to game, the girls practiced hard to set a good foundation. The girls learned new skills to develop their own way to play for single matches and they learned how to cooperate during the double. They were also taught to improve their old skills.

"This is my first year to ever play tennis for a team. So far getting to play every day and learn new skills has been excellent" said junior Lisa Zanzarella.

With their continuous victories, the girls felt more confident about themselves and their team. "Our top 6 girls are very competitive and have accomplished a lot, even when much wasn't expected of them since we are a new school and team. We learn a lot from them and we all love our purple outfits!" said sophomore Phuong Huynh.

Love and Deuce

The team started off small with only four juniors, two sophomores, and four freshmen. Practice began in late February and the team worked hard in practices to improve their skills. Tennis proved to be both physical and mental.

"I joined the tennis team, because I'm not very good, but hopefully I'll do better next year," said junior Eugene Kim. The players needed no previous experience to join, they trained hard to meet their goals.

The junior tennis bobcat Tomas Shin enjoyed being on the team. "We aren't that great this year, but joining the team was one of the funnest things I've ever done."

The boys tennis team met after school for practices. Scott Donelson consented in participating in the practices, "practice makes perfect."

The team gathers together as Coach Davis develops a strategy to win. The team's skills were displayed during the tennis match.

Freshman Luke Persian is right on target as he is getting ready to hit the ball back to his opponent.

Tomas Shin leaps as he reaches for the ball. Staying in shape was very important in the sport of tennis, the players had to be able to leap for the ball and run all over the course as well.

Sophomore David Goldberg commented that "the key to tennis is having intensity without losing your head."

Junior Eugene Kim is setting up for his serve during practice. His serves were some of the best on the team. The serve was the most important because it set up the game.

Guys Dig Chicks With Sticks

"Girls lacrosse is a great sport for girls to learn. Unlike boys lacrosse, girls require more skill. Playing lacrosse helps you stay in shape, builds confidence, also gets rid of your fear of getting hit by the ball and gives you a great tan. Even if a girl doesn't have experience with Ms. Hawkins great coaching she'll be a pro in no time," said Georgia Stoyanov.

"The girls lacrosse team has come together and improved so much in only five practices. Even without a field, and practicing in the school parking lot, we are already a close team and we're looking forward to a good season," said junior Dana Dobson.

Even with the terrible practice conditions and the unfortunate weather, the girls lacrosse team has overcome those factors for a great season. In a pre-season practice tournament the girls rallied for a victory over two teams.

Tessa Cox and Stacey Billingsley time their teammates during an afternoon running drill. The rest of the team is cheering their teammates on in hopes of a better performance.

Junior Cody Travers prepares to catch the ball passed by another teammate during a long practice.

Junior Hunter Stofan and freshmen Christopher Klene and David Hodges wait in line to run through an agility drill.

Linking Sticks

Boy's Lacrosse kicked off the season with long daily practices. Their practice started almost right after school and sometimes went to 6:00 PM. Junior Stefan Sakowski said, "During practice we do drills, like line drills and fast break, but I'm looking forward to watching my fellow lacrosse players do very well during our first game, while I'm watching from the bench."

Many players were excited about the uniforms, as Junior David Roberts commented, "Our purple uniforms look sexy! Now we can look good and play good."

The team prepares for a long practice before their big game.

Juniors Morgan Simcox and Patrick Tsui gather their sticks and gear before practice.

Freshman pitcher, Megan Stuphin, winds up a pitch for the Bobcats in their first encounter with Woodbridge.

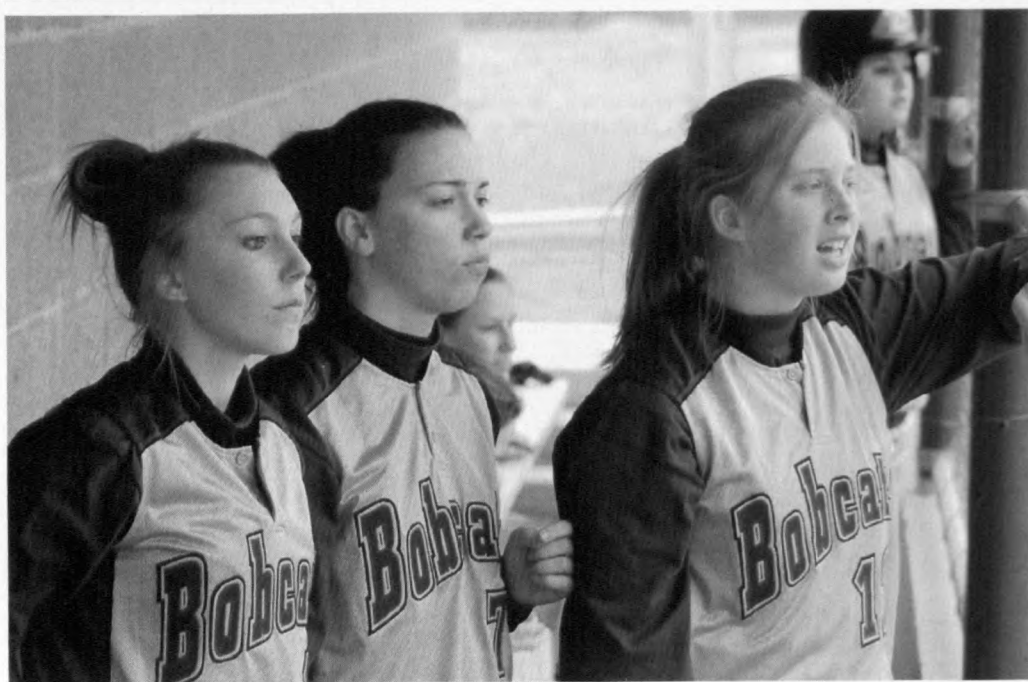

Varisty softball is a team that was up and coming on the first year. The softball program was coached by Coach Joe Schelzo and Coach Art Dietrick.

"I play softball because it is a fun sport. One personal benefit of being on the team is lettering," said junior Kelly Regis. Kelly plays first base for the varisty team. Regis also said, "Try-outs for softball were more like a practice then actual try-outs. I had a lot of fun and I get to play with a bunch of my friends!"

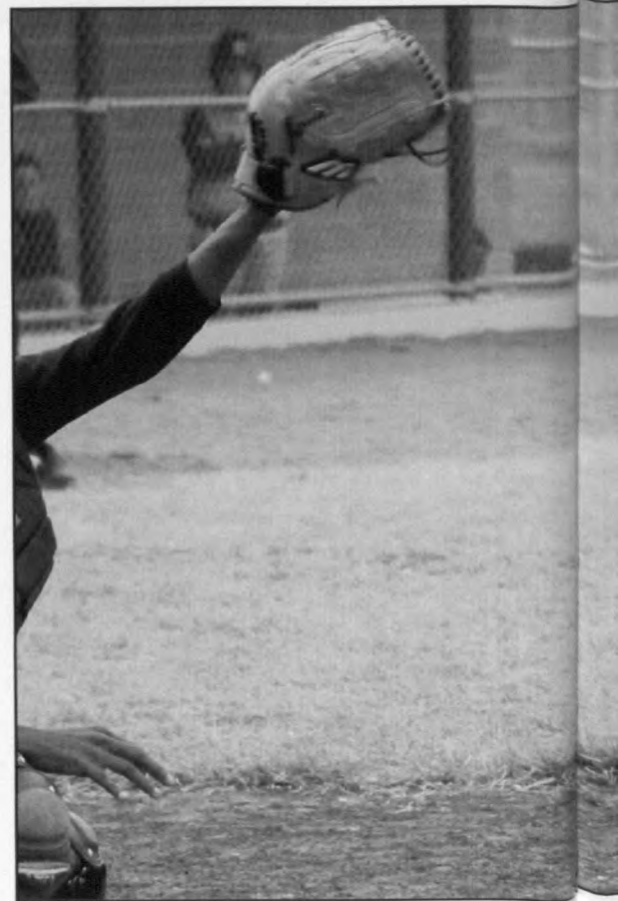

The first softball team of Battelfield strived to show the competition that just because they were a new school didn't mean that they should be counted out.

"I play softball because its such a fun sport. I have played it like all my life. I have made so many friends through out the years with softball and I hope to make more this year. Playing on varsity will help me improve my softball skills but also have fun playing with my friends," said junior Taylor Entminger who plays outfield for the bobcats. "This year is battelfield's first year so I don't know how well we are going to be this season, but if we practice hard and all work together we will have a great team next year!"

"I am looking forward to having a good season. I hope to learn a lot of new skills while making friends and having a good time," said sophomore Lindsay Sheffield. She went on to say "I love playing softball. I have played for 10 years, and I love being with my friends while playing a sport that I love. A personal benefit of being on the team is that I can improve my skills while having fun at the same time."

Juniors Taylor Entminger, Laura Schafer, and freshman Lindsey Caudle wait their turn to bat as they watch and cheer on their teammates from the dugout.

Sophomores Brian Turner and Daniel Blair came into the dugout between innings with freshman Matt Crouse, Tyler Bent, and Evan Scott during the team's fifty inning game fundraiser.

Finding the Big Leagues....

The baseball team had a rocky start, but they were able to pull together in the middle of the season to show their full potential. Some team players, such as sophomore David Herbeck, started prepping for the season as early as August by attending summer baseball camps. "Hopefully we can make it far this season. I really think that the team is like Tampa Bay defense. FAST," commented Herbeck early in the season.

The team earned their first win over spring break, beating Stuart High School eleven to one. The team had a great game, but suffered the loss of former catcher and third basemen junior Geran Clemente. Clemente was hit in the face while suicide bunting, but was able to return about three weeks later.

Bobcat boys were in the community spotlight not only for their baseball skills, but because only a few days after the team was picked, Coach Caudle took the boys to Tyler Elementary School to read to the children. Both teams dressed up in uniform and went to the elementary school before practice. All of the boys were given a class of their own to read to, varying in grade level. "It was great to see the smiles on the kids faces when we came in in our uniforms. I signed my first autograph for them, so all in all it was a good and enjoyable experience and i'm looking forward to going back," commented Daniel "preacher man" Blair. The elementary children really enjoyed the experience, and some classes even sent thank you cards to the boys.

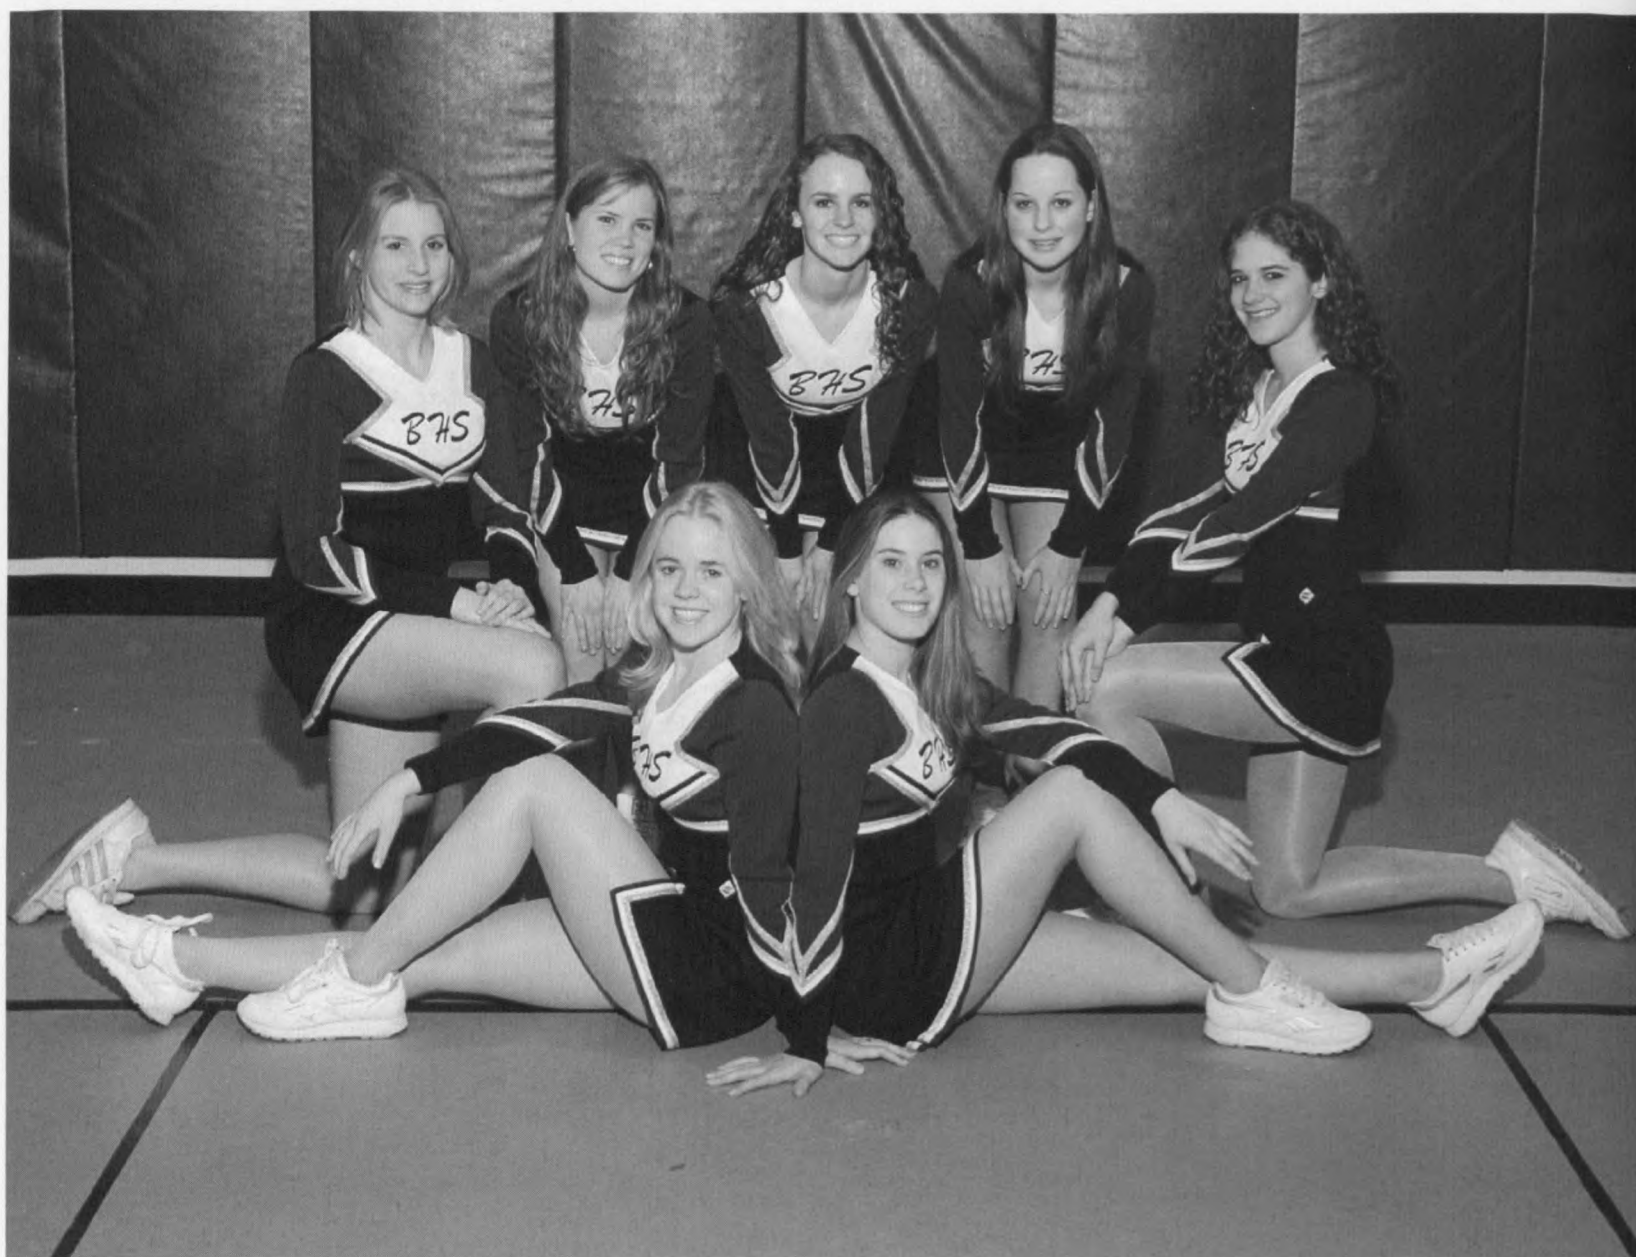

Coach Caudle, Coach Carol,

Sophomore David Herbeck was one of the leaders of the team during the season on and off the diamond.

Freshman Matt Crouse was the number three pitcher in the line up, used mainly as a relief pitcher during games. Crouse was one of the few left-handed pitchers this season.

Sophomore Brian Turner (BT) stepped in as the catcher early in the season, showing not only his talents on the mound, but behind the plate as well.

Dance Fever

The season began with camp in August where the girls learned routines and spent time getting to know their teammates. Since then they worked on choreographing their own dances to do at games and prepared for competition.

Junior captains Dallas Lee and Katelyn Fullerton prove that they can coordinate their outfits as well as they can dance!

The Bobcat dancers competed at Osbourn Park High School on December 11 in the Prince William County Dance Champs competition. They were the smallest and the only first-year team there and still walked away with three trophies! The girls received 3rd place in the Jazz and Kick categories, and 2nd place in Team Performance. Junior captain Dallas Lee commented, "Dance team is awesome and we're going to serve everyone at competition next year!"

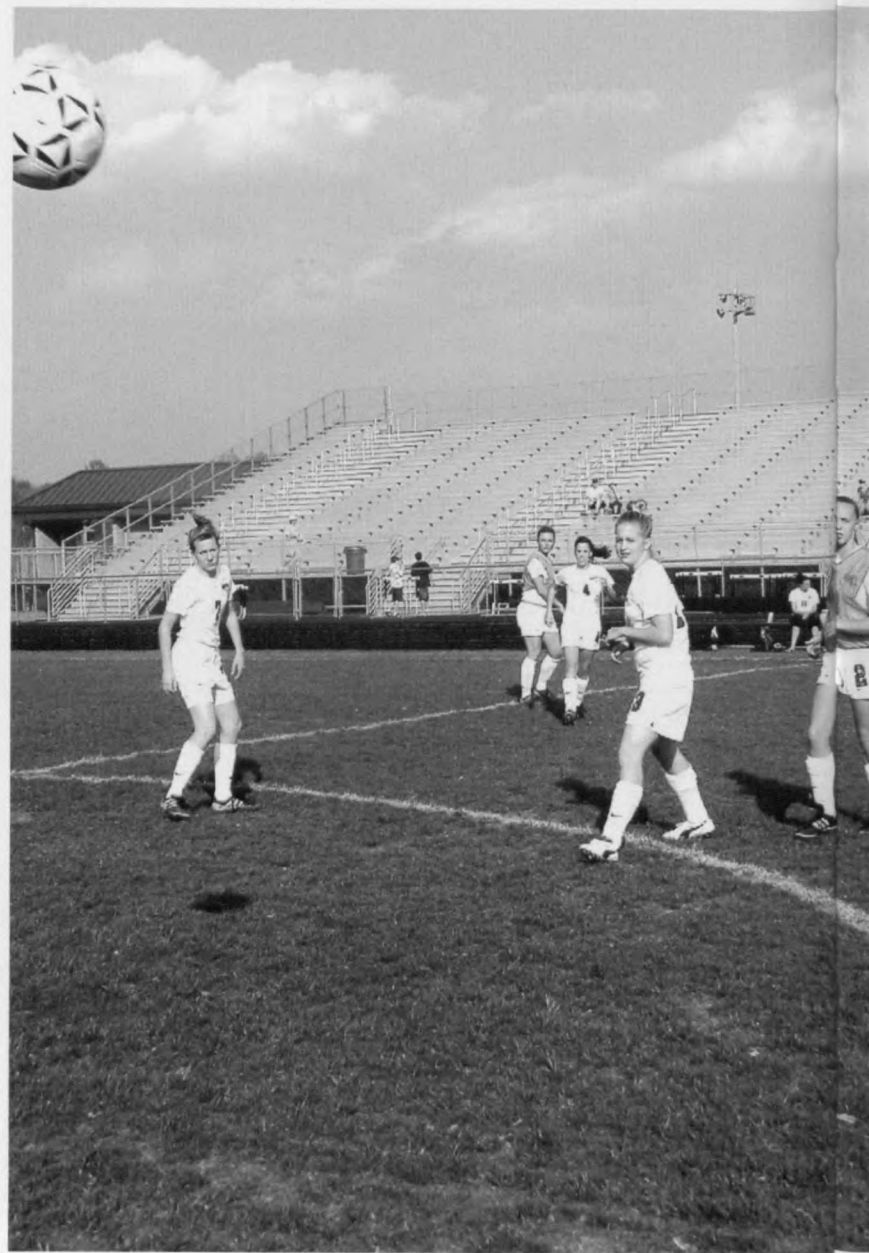

The girls practice their "team bonding" after a long rehearsal at the studio before their competition.

Before the last game of the season, the dance team gets together for one last picture, displaying their unique style and love for the 80's!

Midfielders Lacey Washer, Chelsea Pfeiffer, and Caitlin Maat prepare their offensive strategy.

Sophomore Alyssa Perez, and freshman Jessie Jewele, Pamela Norkus and Lexi Coyle finally enjoy a warm field after a long cold spring.

Warming up for the duel with Potomac, freshmen Lexi Coyle and Jackie Kirchner chase the ball together.

Freshman Lexi Coyle, Jessie Jewele, Kristen Norkus and junior Stephanie Hair hang out before a big game.

Exceeding Goals

The team worked hard during warm ups to generate the power to win. By the eighth game, the girls were already placed first in the district. They learned fast that practice paid off.

Perserverance showed through when the girls played against Potomac. They won with the score of five to zero. Junior Sarah Fening scored two goals which helped the team out by raising their points.

Although the girls had many great games, they sometimes came close to being defeated. The score of the game against Hilton was 1 to 2. However, they rallied to slaughter Potomac 5-0 and Osborne Park 4-2. And took a win with 2-1 over Hylton.

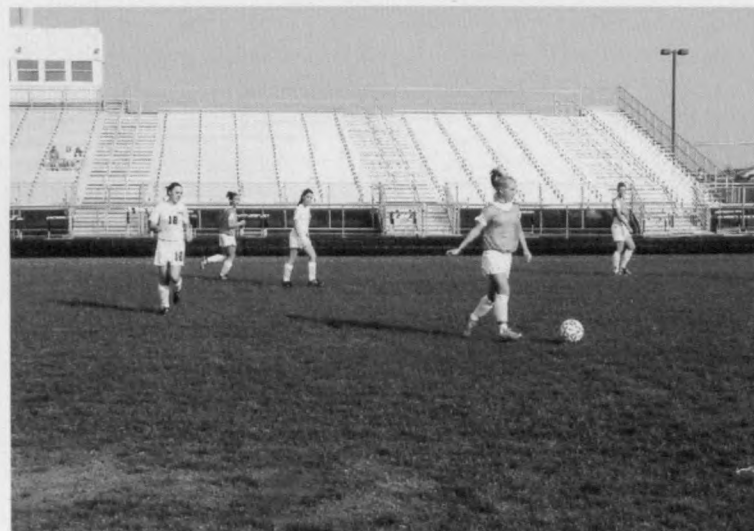

The varsity team included not only three juniors and three sophomores, but ten freshman. Starting goalie Kristen Norkus and sweeper, Alyssa Perez lead the defense. Leading scorers were Sarah Fenning, Stephanie Heir, and Stephanie Balzano. Overall it was a young team to be varsity, but they proved themselves talented and strong and exceeded their goals.

Junior Stephanie Hair, who plays midfield, runs with the ball showing her skills to the rest of the team.

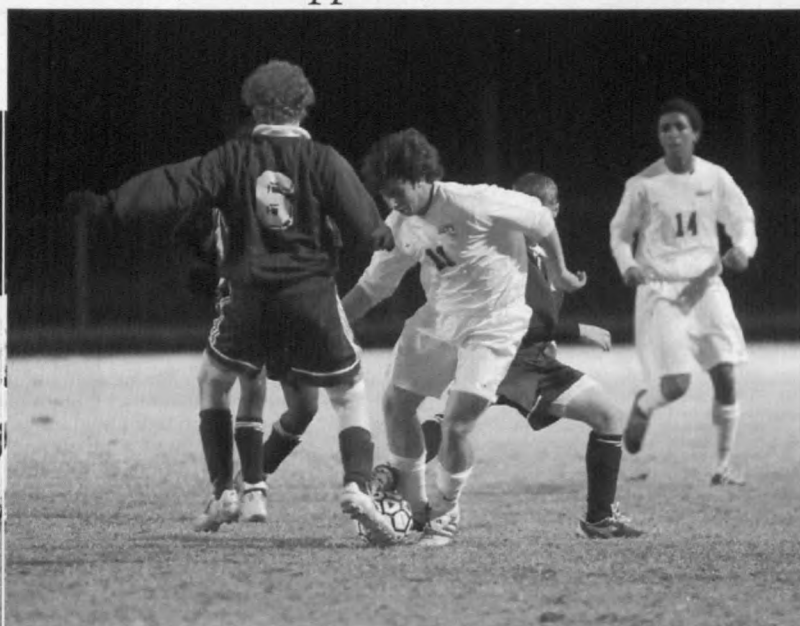

"We may not have seniors or be the biggest team but we will make up for it with hard work," said Brendan Miafield.

"We are the champions, there's no time for losers cause we are the champions, of the world...Once we get used to playing with each other, we'll be unstoppable. We're like a little seed, once we grow we'll be an unmovable force," said Chris Shafer.

Talented, Unstoppable, and Unmovable...

"This year will be a test of how well we will do next year," said defense player, Zach Ward.

K i c k i n g

"This looks to be like an excellent season for soccer, and I'm glad to be part of the team that starts off the tradition at this school," said junior Jonathan Rezadost, goalie. This year's team is more than happy to give their all and prove that there's something special about this team.

"We may not have the most talent, but we will work hard to make up for it," said sophomore Brendan Shaffer.

"I think we'll have a pretty good opening season. We have a lot of skillful players, so I think we'll win a few games," said sophomore Erik Clements.

Foreign exchange student Mark Bitton aka Columbia said, "All day I dream about soccer, it is great here."

"It's hard work but I know it will be worth it when we win," said sophomore Lucas Burden.

"The best game we played would have to be the game we won against Marshall, 3 to 1," said Coach Smith.

"Even though one of our most important players got injured, Jackie had an amazing recovery, and will be back stronger than ever," said Rezadost.

"We go to every practice with our mind set on defeating our next opponent, we're the only team I know that knows there is something special about us," said Eric Clements.

"The game against Marshall proved what we can do, we have confidence that we will succeed and become better than ever by the next season. These players are all unique and bring a special quality to the team that can never be replaced," said David Ortiz.

CLASSES

National Art Society

The National Art Society included talented students from Art II and Art III. Members included Jenny Seo- Co/president, Grace Potes- Secretary, Sarah Hodges- Historian, CC Jorquera- Co/president, Arnold Abby, Brendan McCormick, Soo Lee, Shea Curtis, and Jae Lee. The student's first big project of the year was to paint murals of the male and female signs with their own made up piece of art work inside the outline of the figure in each of the school bathrooms. Sponsored by the art teacher, Vicki Burns, the National Art Honor Society met every Wednesday to learn to learn and have the chance to show their creativity with different projects. Sophomore, CC Jorquera said, "National Art Honor Society gives us a chance to use our creativity and artistic skills to beautify our school's environment while having fun and making friends."

Junior Arnold Abby said, "I feel honored to be in the art club, because it gives me a chance to challenge my artistic ability."

Mrs. Burns, the sponsor of the National Art Society as well as the art teacher gives her advice to a student in an Art I class.

Sophomores Shea Curtis and CC Jorquera had a little fun after school making thier own original art, advertising the honor society.

Working diligently after school, sophomore Sarah Hodges focuses on her creative design for one of the ladies bathroom walls.

Junior Grace Potes, the National Art Honor Society secretary, lent her talents to all of the Honor Society projects.

Sophomore Shea Curtis worked after school on one of the girls bathroom murals. One of the first projects of the year.

Rocking the School

Second period, the only class with percussion, concentrate as they run through their music, looking for accuracy and musicality.

The students focused as they played Military Escort for the student body at an early morning assembly before winter break.

Third period Band gets ready for Spring Festival as they rehearse their music with their conductor Mr. Brodt.

Sophomore Kelsey Smith and freshman Rachel Satterwhite along with the rest of the Marching Band entertain the crowd at the fall pep rally.

Fifth period plays "Sonata for Winds", as they critique their performance for the upcoming festival.

Sponsored by: The Beaty Family, B&W Excavating

The Marching Band got off to a great season by earning a superior rating (I) at VBODA, the first step to being a Virginia Honors Band. "Marching Band got the first undefeated season ever at Battlefield... we rock!" said Trisha Ernst the only junior member of the marching band.

Everyone had good things to say about the band according to freshman Zach Grigsby, "One Band One Sound." Band was all about the connection and communication.

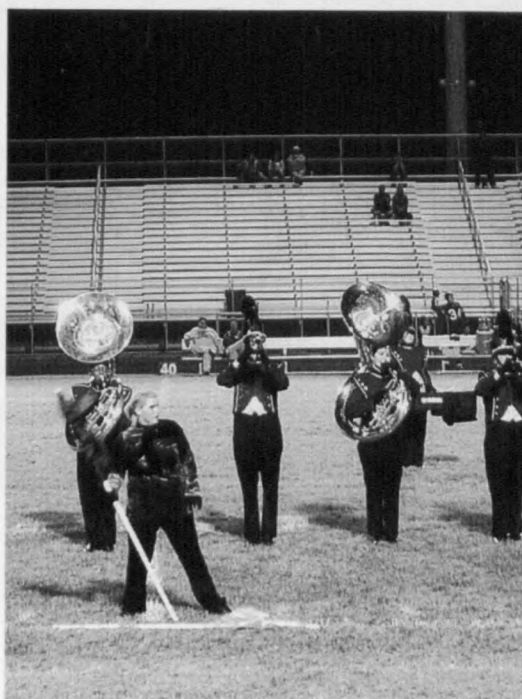

Members had to stay together no matter what came their way. They learned together and helped one another for a common goal-to be the best! "Band rocks the School! It is the best place to learn collaboration and leadership among peers", said sophomore Sarah Son.

Working hard was the only way to come out on top, "Hard work pays off, ten trophies and an undefeated season is proof of that" said sophomore Dennis O'Neill.

The Bobcats marched during half-time at an early October game. Freshman Amy Mills stands at attention while sophomore Jorge Liloy and junior Trisha Ernst lead the brass line.

Freshman drum major Danielle Hettmann leads the band and the drum line during a football game.

During half time at a home game, junior Tricia Ernst (tuba), and freshman Sarah Dodson (color guard) perform.

Melissa Thorpe the sole junior of color guard, freshman Caitlin Johns and Sarah Dodson practice hard at a late night rehearsal in the driving range.

The Show Must Go On!

Lights! Camera! Action! Battlefield students came together every morning to put together a live news show. Students took jobs like cameraman, director, switcher and anchor to bring the show to life. "I like TV production because you have a chance to do something like operate a camera or be an anchor. You get to do something that you probably won't do any other time in your life," said sophomore Serene Cullin.

There were many types of brand new equipment waiting to be used. "In TV production, we get to use all of the Hollywood equipment to put on a great tv show for all in the school to see. TV production is just like Fox 5 news or CNN, only we get to be behind the scenes," said sophomore Andy Sauer.

While BCTV students got familiar with the equipment, others watching are getting familiar with their faces. "A lot of people have come up to me and said, 'hey you're on the TV in the morning, right?'" said junior anchor Brad Wallace.

BCTV gave the students a chance to express themselves and show their creativity through the new ideas for the show. "During the holidays, it's always fun because we get to decorate the studio and sometimes dress up in holiday costumes to make the show more fun to watch," said freshman Emily Spaulding.

In TV production, Battlefield students of every grade, came together and broke through the first year of BCTV with great success!

From videotaping raw footage of sports and classes to writing scripts for dramatic presentations, the television crew loved being "on the air."

Junior Corey Teates and freshman Jon Combs, Cory Nicholson and Emily McLaughlin crowd around a computer to do some serious editing.

Sophomore Braden Bissegger prepares for a show by dressing up in silly clothes, found in BCTV's own wardrobe.

Sophomores Justin Cresswell and Andy Sauer talk to Ashley Russell about planning the opening act for the next show.

Freshman Jon Combs gets down for a worm's eye view shot for the next show.

Singing Strategies

Starting from scratch and doing well was expected to be a difficult task for a new program, yet the Battlefield Choral Department amazed the school with their spectacular singing. The program consists of five choirs, Treble, Concert, Men's, Advanced Women's, and Chamber Choir. The singer's achievements began with auditions in October when eight Bobcat singers made All County Honors Choir. Those students included juniors Katelyn Fullerton, David Roberts, and freshman Tristian Kirkman who all made the senior mixed choir. Sophomores Tasha Nadsai, Megan Seagears, Parker Solomon, and freshmen Larissa Kruesi and Bridgette Wells made the all women's choir. The following week, the bobcat singers had auditions again, this time attempting to make the All District Honors Choir. Sophomores Megan Seagears and Parker Solomon, and freshmen Larissa Kruesi and Alison Potter made the all women's choir. Alternates included junior Katelyn Fullerton and freshman Bridgette Wells. Special recognition went to junior David Roberts, as he was the only Battlefield singer to make the senior mixed choir and received first alternate in the All State Choir. The bobcat singers earned much gratitude and respect at each audition, and were described by other choirs as "smokin' good!"

In addition to their regular classes and outside auditions, there were 14 singers who met every Tuesday after school who made up the Chamber Choir. Here they would practice music in preparation for concerts and upcoming festivals. "Chamber choir has been an awesome group to hang out with. We are outstanding, work hard, and have plenty of fun while doing so," commented sophomore Amanda Duggleby, member of Chamber and Concert Choir. With a growing program, the Chamber Choir will have the privilege of having a class just like the other four choirs next year.

During the Winter Concert, freshman Chanel Figueroa amazes the crowd with her beautiful voice as she sings a solo for one of the Treble Choir songs.

Members of the Chamber Choir meet at the Manassas Train Station on a Saturday morning to entertain spectators by singing Christmas carols.

Members of the Men's Choir show that they can not only sing well, but they are also strong by assisting Ms. Gregory in moving the piano off stage!

Achieving help from a fellow classmate, sophomore Daniel Blair listens to the explanation of a mind-boggling trig problem.

Freshman Aaron Blair, achieved his share of accomplishments this year. Not only did he go to reginals for his reading in the Forensic club he won the Martin Luther King Jr. oratorical contest. He was also accepted in the People To People Inauguration, where he joined a select group of students to usher in the new president and his cabinet.

Reviewing thier rough draft of their reasearch paper sophomore Michel Kilby and Justin Cresswell finish their peer reviews for a vital part of the research paper process.

Academics and Debate

Bickering Bobcats

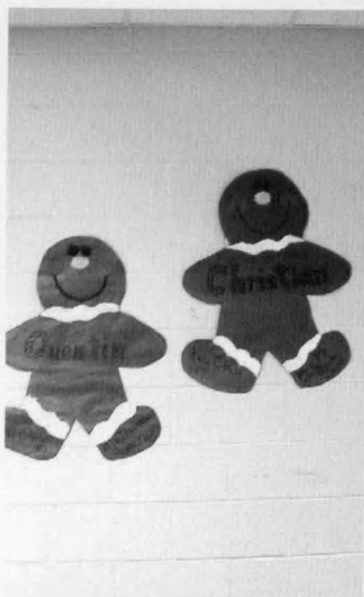

Fighting their way to victory, the debate team practiced many days after school to perfect their arguments. Using the Lincoln-Douglas form of debate they competed at Broad Run High School in a local debate tournament for which you had to qualify to enter. Jessica Rhodes finished in 6th place overall and 8th place in the JV category. She advanced to the quarter finals for her argument. Meg Stitely was also a 6th place speaker. The debate team participated in the VHSL regionals and made the first debate team at Battlefield a victorious one as well as one to build an even better future upon. They clearly sent the message to other teams to watch out and never bicker with a Bobcat!

Watching intently Mrs. Hamilton listens to one of her debaters while they read through their first draft for the upcoming debate.

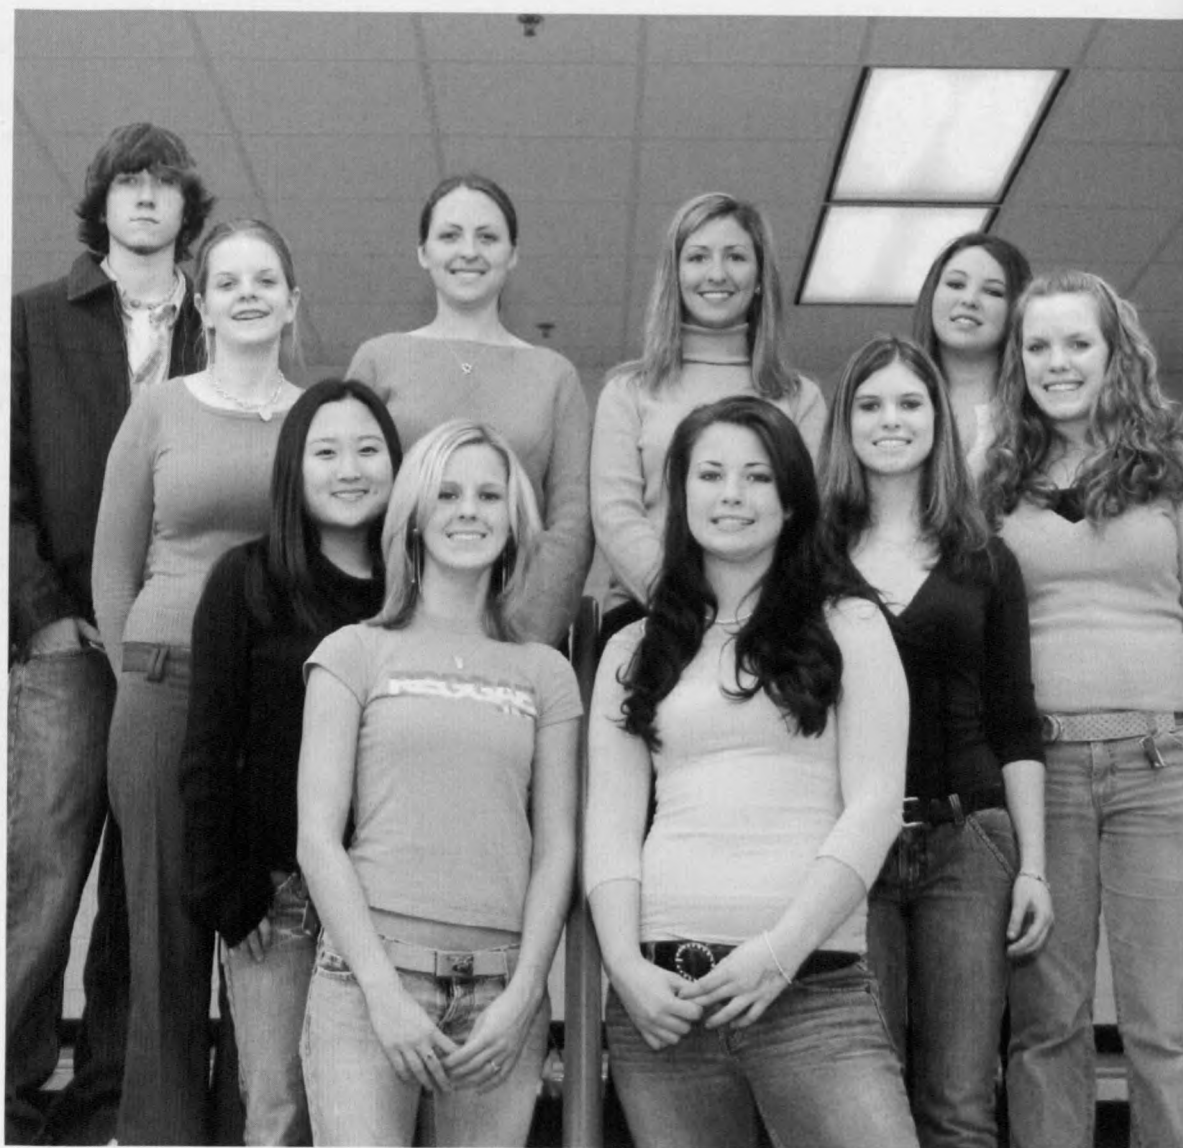

Practicing for their upcoming conference Jessica Rhodes and Joanne Ferguson rehearse each side of their argument.

President of FBLA junior Lisa Zanzarella said, "FBLA has been a great experience this year. Operation Turkey was a great success and we're hoping that our other functions are just as successful."

"The field trips rock because you get to miss class," said sophomore Emily Flynn. FBLA and DECA did many fundraisers. These two clubs did the coat drive.

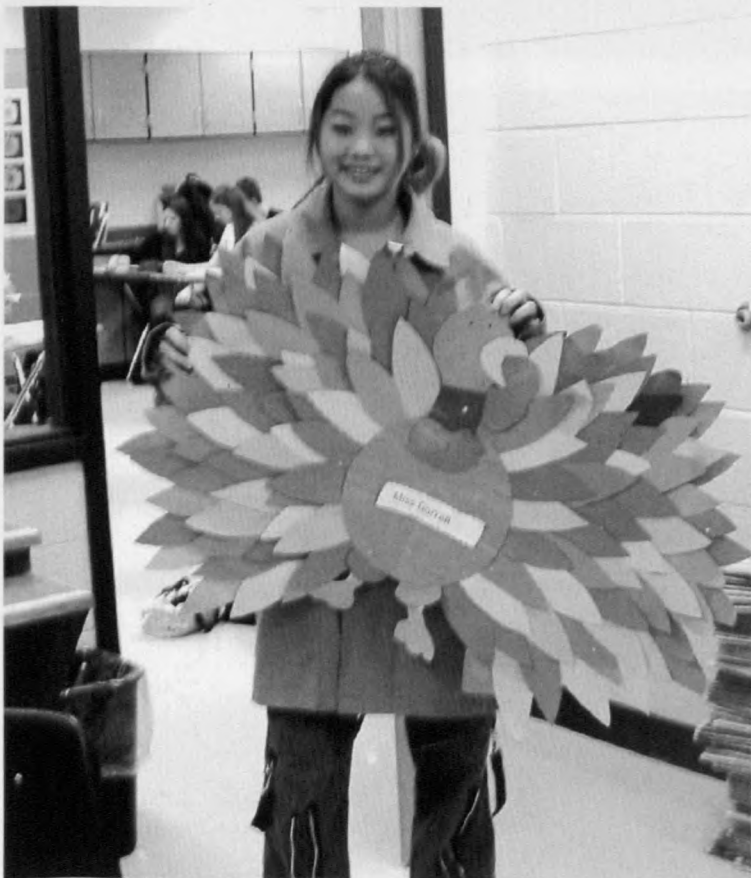

"DECA is fun because Ms. Smith is like my sharpener on the back of my crayon box," said junior Shannen Smerbeck.

Those donations went to the homeless people of the local areas food drive. They also did the Thanksgiving food drive which was delivered to the local shelters. These donations helped the area's homeless people.

Outdoor Fun

Ecology club was involved in projects from camping, helping out at the science fair, to recycling. "Ecology club is awesome. We do all sorts of fun things. Soon we are going to the Baltimore Aquarium."

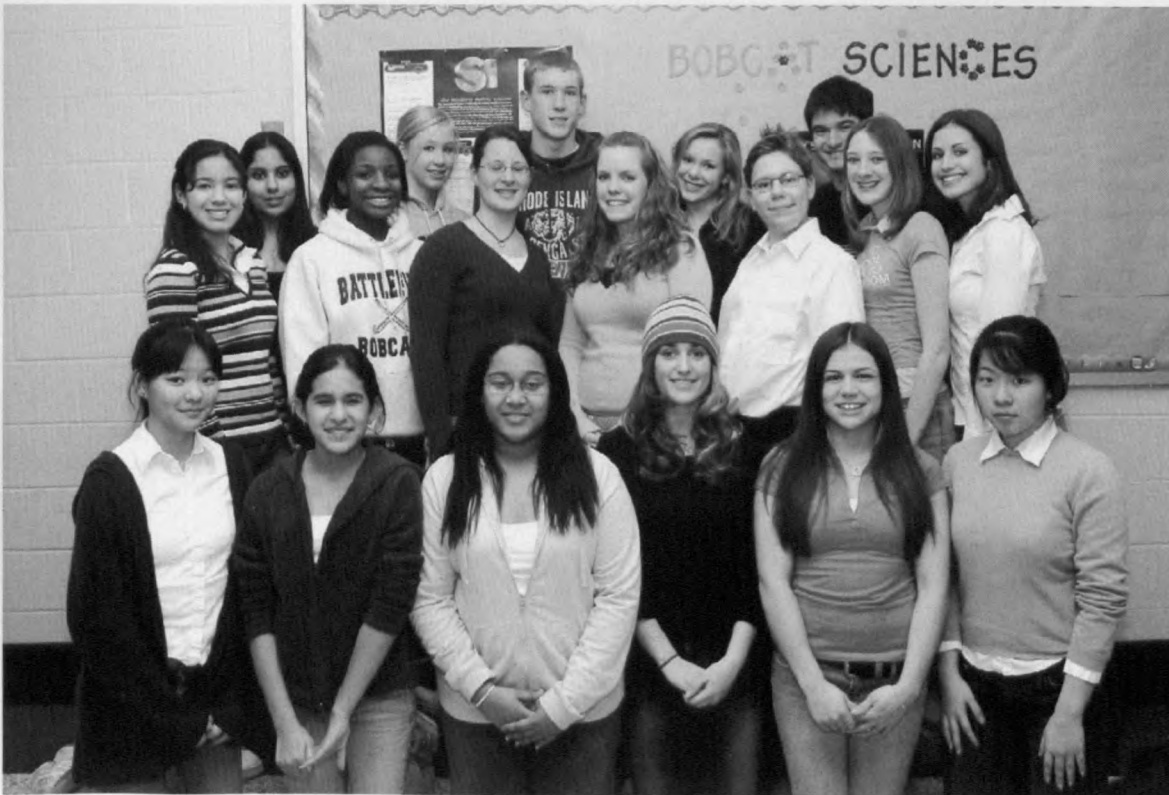

"Also, we are about to set up a school recycling program," said vice president of Ecology Club, junior Alex Houser.

The Club was a great place to make friends.

"The Ecology Club is a good place to go outside and hang out with friends. We are hoping to go camping and hiking in the spring," stated ecology club president Alan Hill.

Some student were apprehensive to join ecoglogy club. First I did not want to join because it is ecology, but after a few meetings and some plans for the future, it sounded fun. We go outside and go hicking and camping. We also worked on a recycling project for our school." said junior Miriam Weimer.

English Endeavor

Sophomores David Rutledge, Andra Powell, and Kelsey Smith

Most would assume that English class would be a breeze; after all, we speak it! However, the sophomores and juniors came to find themselves between a rock and a hard place when it came to their research papers. Juniors started working on their research paper as early as mid October, while the sophomores didn't start working until well after the winter break.

"It wasn't a difficult paper to write, just time consuming and with things like midterms, sports, and friends to deal with, the research paper was like a weight on my shoulders," said junior Emily Ludeman.

Other juniors, such as Jessica Ortega, felt the same way as Ludeman. "It was definitely a pain in the butt," commented Ortega when asked to describe the writing process.

For the sophomores, the pressure wasn't as much of a burden to them; after all, it was a practice paper. The tenth grade teachers felt that the sophomore class should have practice writing the paper so they would be prepared for next year.

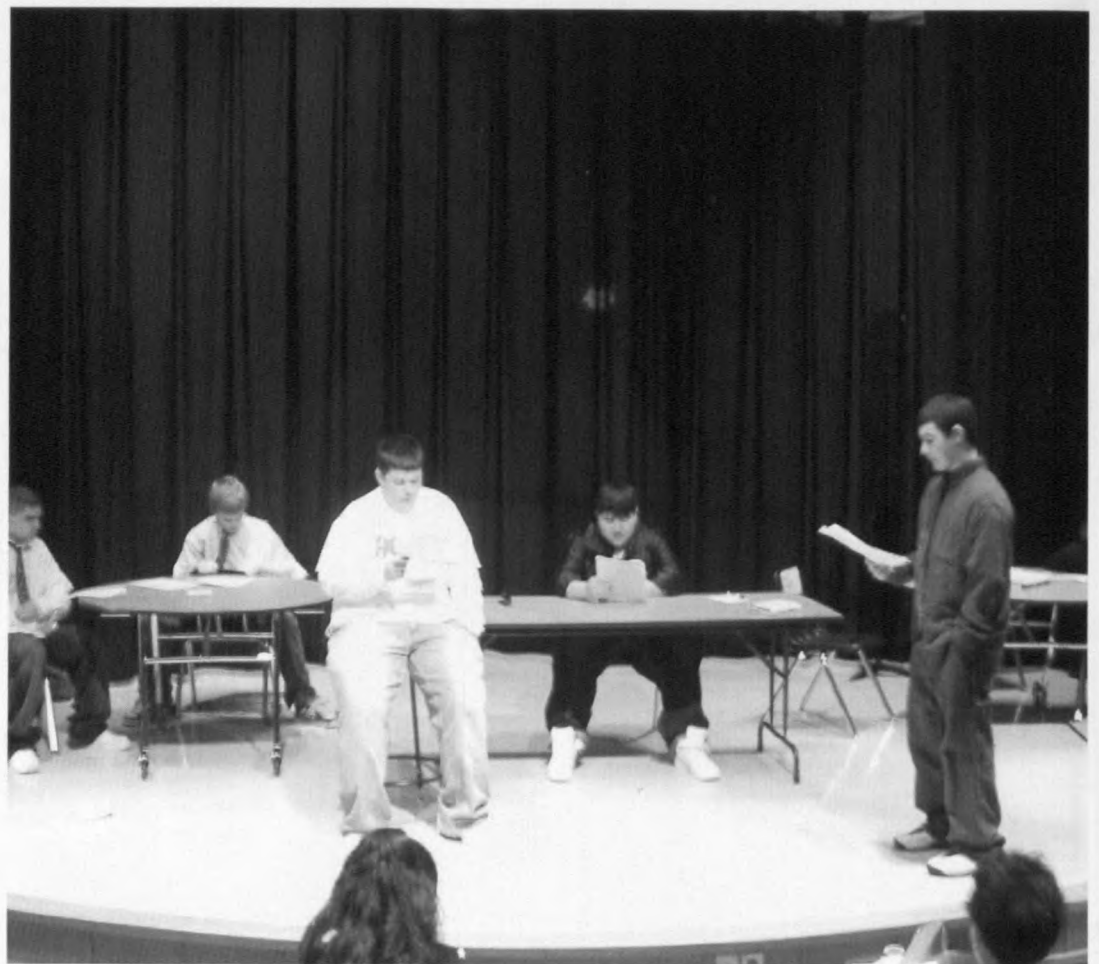

"I thought it was a good idea for us to write a practice paper, but that didn't make it any easier to finish," commented sophomore Caitlyn Reyonolds.

This year wasn't completely about the research papers. The freshman classes had gatherings in the closed cafeteria celebrating the Renaissance times. For two days, freshman alike walked the halls dressed in Renaissance clothes and filled with Renaissance food. From papers to parties, it was a big year for the English department.

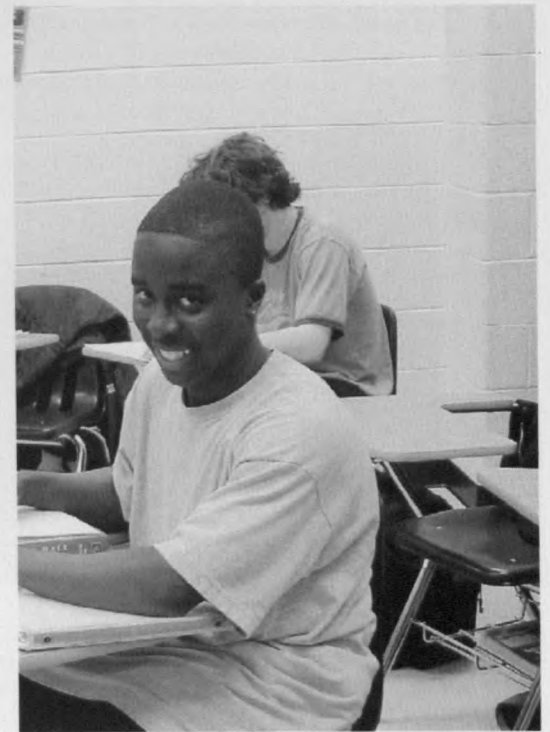

Mrs. Lees English 10 class works hard on outlining a rough draft for their research papers.

Freshman English students act out the trial in the book they are reading To Kill a Mockingbird. Juan Alverey is playing the character atticus, Michael Mitchell is playing Tom Robinson, Chris Harris is playing Mr. Ewell, Shannon Park is playing Judge Taylor, and Will Harryman is playing Mr. Gilmer.

Mrs. Driscoll's fourth period English 10 class pays close attention to a version of William Shakespeare's Julius Caesar.

Michael Ampadu enjoys English so much he can't help but smile.

Jack Patten sits quietly waiting for the next lesson to begin while he finishes up his grammar exercises.

Sophomores take notes on a research paper presentation in Mrs. Driscoll's fourth period class.

Freshman Kelsey Hobar methodically thinks about her up coming cross-country round. Her horse Darbies Dimples was perked and ready to go run.

Junior Colette McGlynn, president and co-founder of the club, practices turning while jumping over the roll top. Her young thoroughbred eventer, Joint Decision, usually was an enthusiastic and classy jumper, but took a lethargic jump out of boredom with the exercise.

Junior Kate Roeglin takes a lesson during a summer camp in Warrenton. She jumps Prez over a cross rail, working on her form.

Junior Ellyn Willis schools her thoroughbred gelding Max over the roll top. She concentrates as he takes a big leap, both looking amazing.

Jumping into the Future

First Equestrian Club in Prince William County

"Life's greatest experiences are those from the back of a horse," said sophomore Allie Hodges.

Battlefield had the first ever equestrian club in Prince William County. "My friends and I worked hard, pestering our sponsor, Ms. Yount and the principal, both horse people, to get our club started and approved. We were ecstatic the day we were approved. We have so many plans," said the president of the club junior Colette McGlynn.

Students did not have to have a horse to be a member. According to sophomore Sarene Cullen, "I am a member of equestrian club and it is really fun. We talk about horses and their habits and share stories about our own experiences. We plan trips to Maryland and places in Virginia to see horse expos and clinics. You can learn a lot about horses if you join."

Junior Ellyn Willis said, "The greatest feeling ever is when you get the perfect canter, it is like flying!"

Horses were a way of life for many that are involved. "Riding is a way to relax and have a carefree time away from all the drama of life," said freshman Kelsey Hobar.

"Horses are strong yet elegant, with exceptional speed for their size. They are very beautiful," claimed freshman Jessica Bauch.

Junior Jessica Martin, vice-president and co-founder of the club, rides Chip'n'Dale and jumps a fence during the show jumping phase of a combined training show.

Juniors Ellyn Willis and Colette McGlynn try to jump their horses simultaneously over the same jump where they board their horses in Gainesville. While not quite making it, they are having a blast trying. They tried to manage their timing and look forward to showing together in Hunter Pace classes during the summer.

Edge club met every Thursday, Christian students came together to pray and worship God. FCA was Fellowship for Christian Athletes, which met on Tuesdays. Like Edge club, FCA was for students who wanted to grow spiritually and get together with other Christians.

"Edge club is a place where you can feel comfortable. You can make friends and openly be in touch with God," remarked sophomore Parker Solomon. It was a nice place for Christian students to get together and not have to worry about their religion and belief in God. They also felt more comfortable being around their peers that had the same beliefs as they did. The students that came together, as well as growing in their religion, met to hang out with their friends. Also during their meetings the students invited their friends and other students to pizza parties and snacks. "Edge club is great for people to hang out together and have the ability to involve religion, and have fun," said freshman Amy Pinilis.

The Edge club started out small, but grew every week. "Edge club is a place where you can have fun, learn about God, and meet friends all in one," said sophomore David Kerns.

Caitlyn Johns picks out her victims during a game of mafia. She was able to eliminate everyone before she was revealed as a member of the mafia.

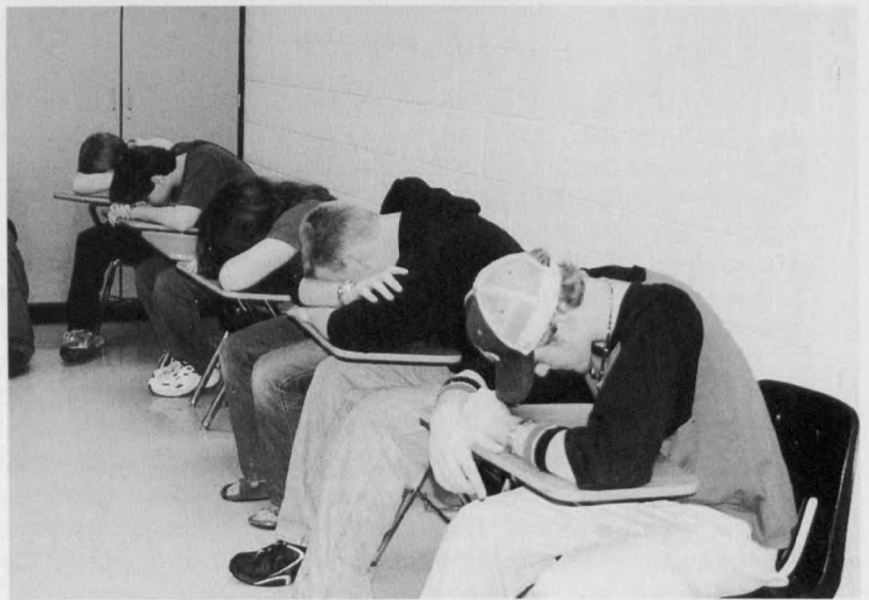

At the end of each meeting, the students went around the room for prayer requests. Each of the students were able to say something if they wanted to.

Sophomore Parker Solomon, freshman Amy Pinilis, and sophomore Ashley Paulson came together on Thursdays to worship.

To break the ice in the beginning of each meeting, all the students played a game to get to know each other better. These games created a very positive and encouraging atmosphere.

An Undercover Look At French Students...

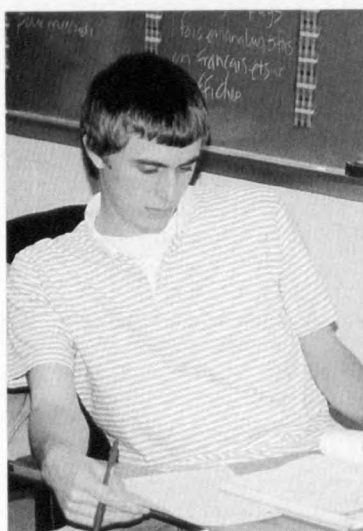

We have all heard French in movies such as "Moulin Rouge", but what really inspired the students of Battlefield to study the foreign language? Was it the food, fashion, or the chance to perfect the nasally sound we all recognize? Juniors Lauren Hayes and Colleen Thamm studied French in the same class and same teacher for all three levels of their foreign language career.

"We've been there for each other through every oral and presentation since level one," commented Hayes.

Any student can share at least one embarrassing moment sometime or another in their study of French. Freshman Zach Grigsby shared, "I once spoke Spanish during my French oral and didn't realize it until I was half way done!"

Through all the good and the bad, over one hundred French students made it through their first year of Battlefield with Madame Clemmence. "Madame helped the students discover the wonders of the French language in new and exciting ways" commented sophomore Lyndsey Dauble.

Freshman Gabriela Camacho commented, "I already speak Spanish and French seemed interesting. I plan to continue all four years of French!" Other students felt the same way as Camacho, but others like sophomore Sean Stark commented, "I just enjoy the challenge." Seems like these students were the lynx to the rest of the world!

Known for his talents in the weight room, junior Bryant Burns always kept up in his French II class.

Sophomores Terrence Carter and Jenny Seo helped each other on a geography terms assignment in the French III class.

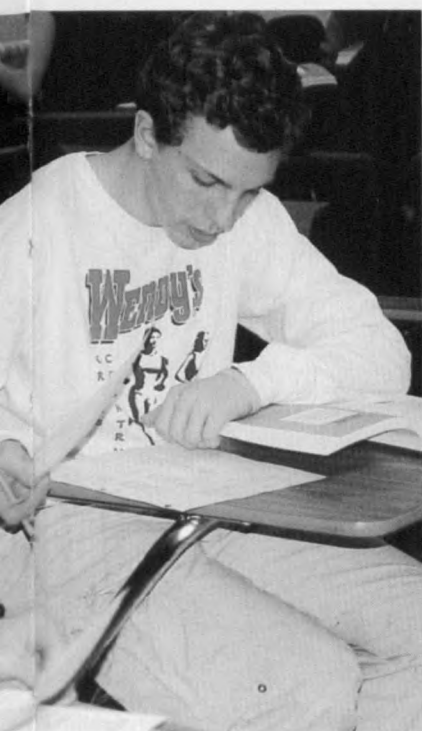

The foreign language department's pride and joy were the upper level French students. Only six students took French IV and they set the standard for all the students to come. Freshman Andres Figueroa, juniors Dallas Lee, Hillary McCain, Kate Roeglin, Jennifer Yang and Dylan Daly were those students.

Sophomore Lyndsey Dauble, juniors Dallas Lee, Colleen Thamm, Jennifer Yang and Hillary McCain represent the French girls on Wacky Wednesday.

Sophomores Ashley Fitzgerald, Shanae Harris and junior Solen Iyassu worked together on group work frequently.

Sophomores Amy Crider, Kendall Graham, and junior Juliette Cho acted out a restaurant scene oral for their French III class.

7th Block Physical Education students relax after a hard game of volleyball.

In health class sophomore James Bollinger studies what he has recently learned while preparing for a test.

In the weight room, junior Katelyn Fullerton bench presses being spotted by junior Amy Hearn.

Sophomores Ashley Cuppet and Chelsea Pastor work hard to complete the pacer test.

Stretched Out

Battlefield's first year of physical education started out excellently. With various activities testing students endurance and strength such as running the mile, shuttle run, sit-ups, pull-ups, and the v-sit. The students were able to use this year as an example of what they could improve on. Physical education was also a lot of fun. The students played various sports such as soccer, football, basketball, baseball, and volleyball. "Health and physical education is one of my favorite classes. Physical education is fun because you cover a lot of sports and you get to play and laugh with your friends," said freshman Caitlin Maat.

"Gym was a lot better this year because we were allowed to do a lot more like play bows and arrows," said sophomore Bella Martin.

Along with physical education classes, there was also a weight training class. "My best class this year would have to be weight training. In weight training we usually get about an hour to lift because in the first thirty minutes we get dressed and stretch out," said junior Zak Bowers.

P.E. was not only about the normal sports that are played in America, but teachers also introduced different cultural games to the students throughout the year. "Tchoukball was an interesting sport started by the Swedish, and the boys really liked playing, although the girls weren't as interested so they just watched," said sophomore Katelyn Crouse. Health taught the students the importance of physical as well as mental fitness.

Coach White and coach Tommy O'Neil demonstrate how to set up a spike while the students observe.

Sophomores Shanttel Jorquera, James Lemmon, and Heather Setliff work in their book quietly in coach Mark Cox's health class.

Shannon Park and Shunn Simkins work together in their Visual Basic Programming lectures and development class.

Mrs. Drake directs her IT class during 7th period.

Michelle Tisch, Jackie Kirchner and Vivian Estaban pay close attention in their 7th period class.

Steven Vasilas and John Rafaels wait for the teachers directions.

Juniors Anton Crawford, Sadd Khan, and Christian Benitez piece together their buildings made of popsicle sticks.

Byte Me!!

Battlefield's IT program took off this year as students leaped into learning about the latest technology. Battlefields new innovated computer labs helped assist students on keeping up with the fast paced course. Many students found the IT program to be the best program within the school because it gave them the opportunity to learn the vital skills that are needed to either enter college life, or to go out into job field. Junior Johnathan Rezadoost II commented "The IT program is unique to this school, so of course it is going to be a great opportunity to seize."

TSA put their talents to the test this year by challenging their computer skills and knowledge. "The mission of the Technology Student Association is to prepare students for the challenges of a dynamic world by promoting technological literacy, leadership, and problem solving, resulting in personal growth and opportunities." Commented RM Weaver, president of TSA.

Shannon Davilla works contently on her in class assignment.

Community Counts

The Key Club worked hard to help the community. Club members were involved in many activities like the Mountain View Elementary School's Holiday Craft Fair Bingo Night, Tyler Elementary School's Halloween Party, Care Kids, and a lot more! The members even worked with "Merry Messengers," delivering candy canes, flowers, and messages before Christmas for fundraising.

"The funnest activity that we did in Key Club was the Mountain View Elementary Holiday Craft Fair because there was a ton of candies and fun things to eat," said junior Juliette Cho. Members not only worked hard, but they enjoyed themselves playing with little kids, planning, and organizing the other projects.

"The Key Club is a good way to be involved in after school activities and it also gives back to the community," said junior Matt Clem.

According to club adviser, Mrs. Hickey, "I love it. It's a great group of kids that have started Key Club."

Junior HeungJu Oh paints a pumpkin on a student's face for the Halloween Party at Tyler Elementary School.

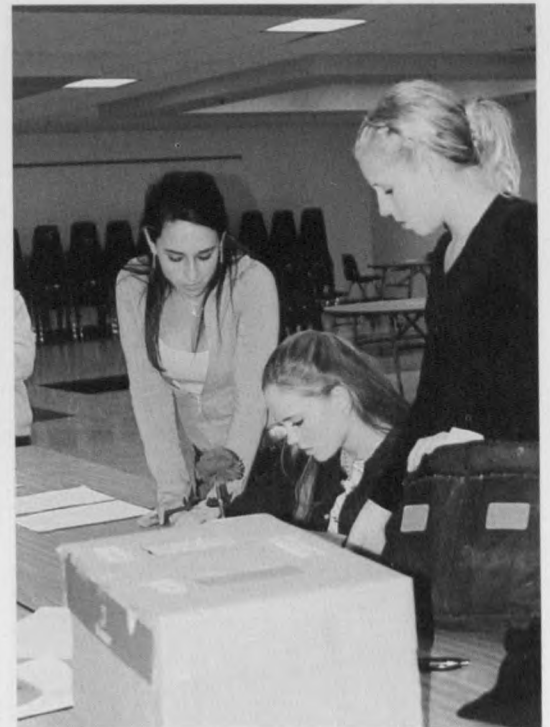

The first Key Club meeting was held on September 30, 2004 in the closed cafeteria.

Helping Tyler Elementary School students make Halloween bags, junior Juliette Cho helps a student wearing a Spiderman costume.

Sophomores Bethany Dodero, Sara Mathis, and Shannon Starrs sign up for volunteer activities during a Key Club meeting.

Sophomore representative Katherine York and Key Club Officer Lorelee Morris patiently wait until they could begin the meeting.

Club adviser Ms. Kenneally introduces Key Club members to future plans.

Keeping the Language Alive

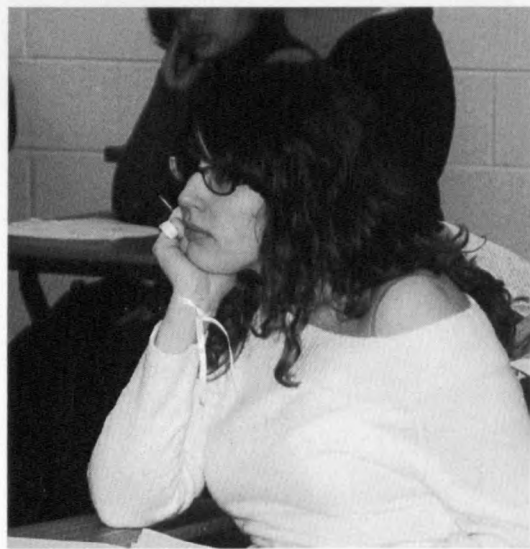

The Latin language has been around for thousands of years. The language was around in the times of Julius Ceasar and even before. Latin was the language to know if you wanted to succeed in life. In the 1900's the Latin language was mandatory to attend college, and a student had to be able to speak as well as read Latin. Since those years, the Latin language is no longer as popular, and few people know the "dead" language any longer.

"In Latin class we learn, but we have fun doing it. Whether it's translating, derivatives or mythology, Latin is always pretty entertaining", commented junior Josh Kern.

Sophomore Andrew Patchen commented, "I took Latin because I like history, and in Latin we not only learn the language but the history behind the language."

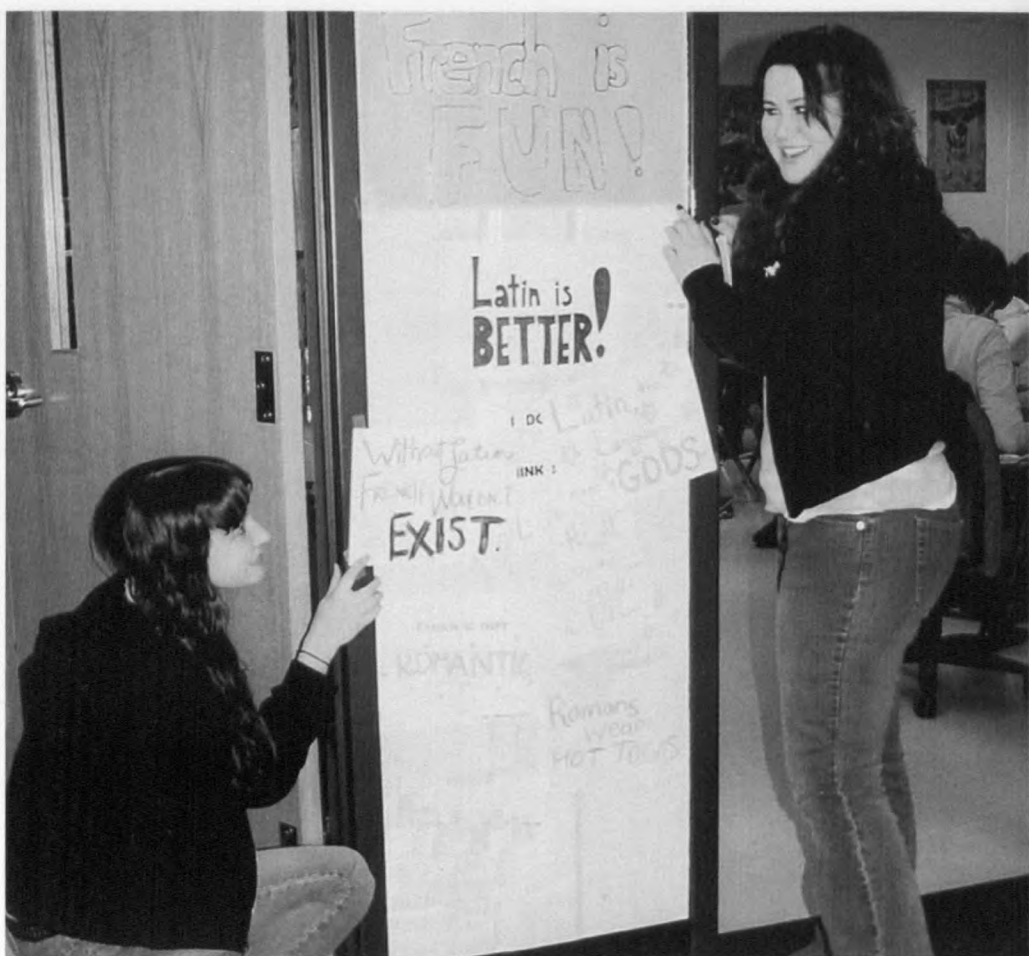

Some students enjoyed Latin so much that they spent extra time after school in Latin club learning as much of the language as possible. Junior Lauren Hayes commented, "Latin club is fun because we get the extra time to learn more about history of Rome and you get to hang out with people from other classes."

Again, junior Dana Dobson focuses intently on her interesting Latin studies with Magistra Yount nearby.

Junior Danielle Fowler listened closely for directions from the teacher.

Latin I students and juniors Dana Dobson and Emily Ludeman displayed the poster war between their class and a neighboring French class. Trojan War Part Deux!

Juniors Cody Travers, Isabelle Shumaker, and Brian Pierson discussed mythology with some help from their teacher, Magistra Yount.

Junior Caleb Cinnamon worked hard on this Latin assignment.

An Apollo poster was displayed on the wall, along with other mythology posters, to show off the students art work.

Sophomore Amber Galmetzer was very serious in translating the story of Aeneas.

Junior Laura Hartman works anxiously to try and finish her homework before the end of Algebra II.

Juniors Peter Mboh and Ramin Cherah work together on problems in the textbook during Algebra II.

Mrs. Hickey uses her Smart Board to teach her Advanced Geometry class.

Mr. Steckman helps Juniors Stephanie Bulzano and Samantha Olsen on a problem in their classwork.

Easy as 1, 2, 3

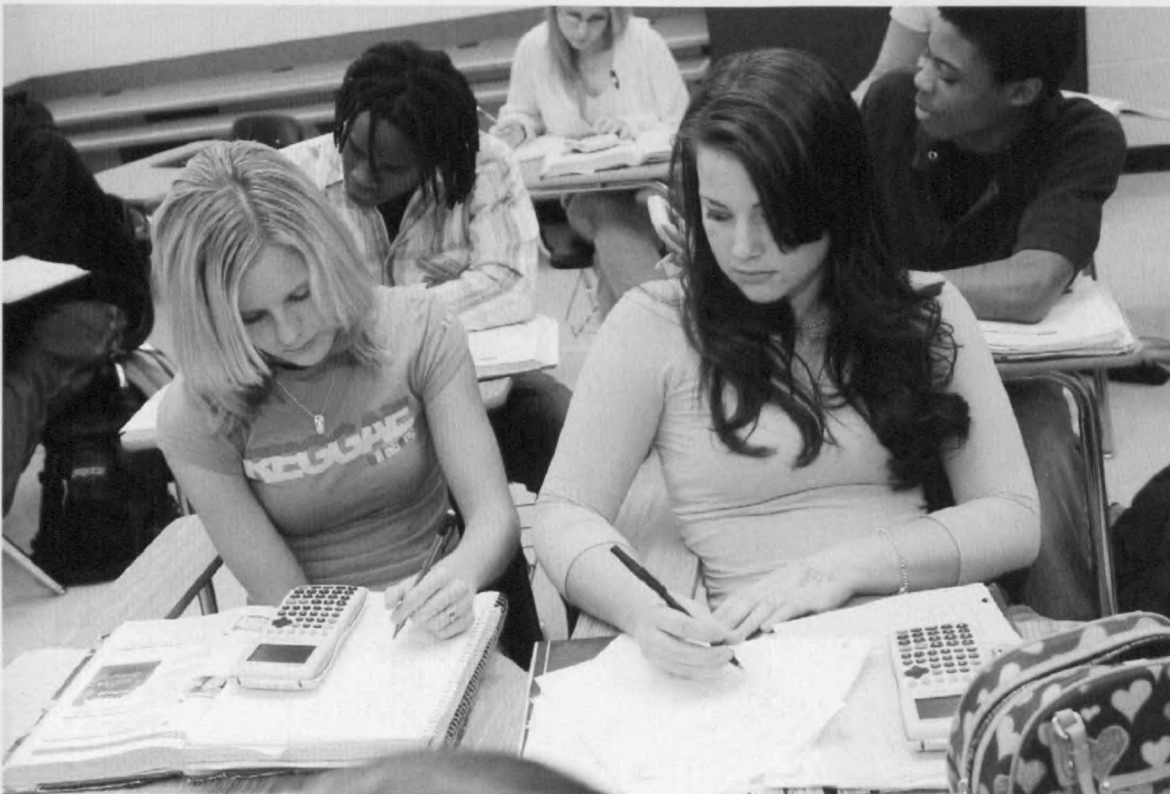

Everyday students looked forward to math class. Junior Sarah Fening said, "Math is so exciting. I love it." Math proficiency proved to be a gift from God, as junior Nick Hefelin said, "Math is math. You're either good at it or you're not. I'd have to say that I am pretty good. I like math because most of the time, there is one solid, definite answer. It's not like English where you have to reason or explain an answer." Junior Dana Dobson added, "I hate math but my advanced math class is the best. Mr. Homan rocks." Junior Laura Lewis said, "I really like figuring out the answers to problems in math. It's quite intriguing!"

Students in Mrs. Macaleer's geometry class concentrate on a pop quiz.

Juniors Sarah Proferes and Amanda Jones work together on their book work during Algebra II.

Pulling Some Strings

Battlefield's Orchestra was filled with talented students that enjoyed working hard. It was the first orchestra to perform at the winter concert. The string groups were made up of basses, cellos, violins, and one viola. Sophomore Daniel Edward said, "At the beginning of the year you may not play well, but at the end, Mrs. Thiele will make sure you can play every note in tune."

Freshman Siera DeJesus said, "At the first performance I was scared, but Mrs. Thiele and the class helped me through it, we work together to give the best sound we can make."

Concert masters, junior Jennifer Yang said, "Orchestra is fun. There's a lot of diverse kids and it's fun to produce great music." Freshman Kelly Lee added, "Orchestra is a blast, we mix music with a lot of fun things and we've really bonded together as a group."

Junior Sarah Tiefenbrunn along with the orchestra concentrate on giving their all and perfecting the sound of their instruments.

Violinists freshmen, Kelly Gass and sophomore Shanae Harris, enthusiastically play their music.

The orchestra preformed at Battlefield's first holiday concert along with band and chorus.

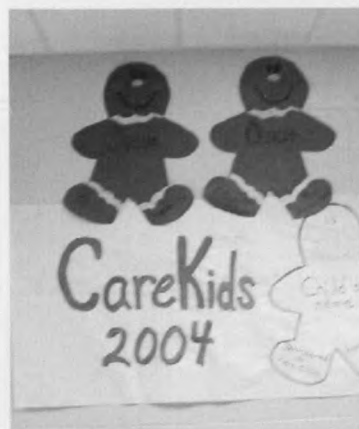

First and second violins, violas, cellos and bass come together for their first performance.

Robert Berriz, freshman president, shows his sense of humor while goofing around after one of the weekly SCA meetings.

Along with numerous creative ideas to get the students to get into the holiday spirit, the SCA sponsored four children for the CareKids program.

Beside the future leaders Mr. Schelzo makes notes and watches over the election assembly.

The Fall Ball, which was held November 13th, 2004 was not only the first event the SCA sponsored but it was the first major event in the school's social history.

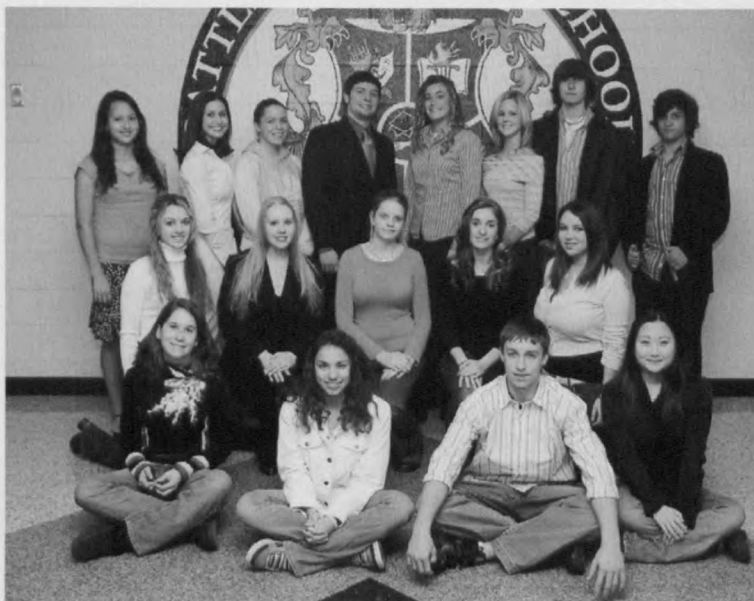

Amanda Jones, representing the junior class at the Fall Ball is also the Junior class president. SCA president Jonthan Rezadoost and junior vice president Corey Teates were also on the court.

Amy Crider, Jonathon Rezadoost, and Sarah Fening, took the student council to the next level. They dedicated not only their spirit, but also a lot of their time, to spread their ideas and make the first year the beginning of a remarkably strong SCA.

SCIENCE VISION

According to sophomore Brieanne Vallee, "I enjoy Biology because we got to do labs and not just notes all of the time. One of the labs that we got to do was creating a small ecosystem with fish, snails, plants, and soil. It was really fun."

Cory Ward, admitted that, "Science is the only class in all of my classes that I know, besides math and drivers ed, that I will actually use in life."

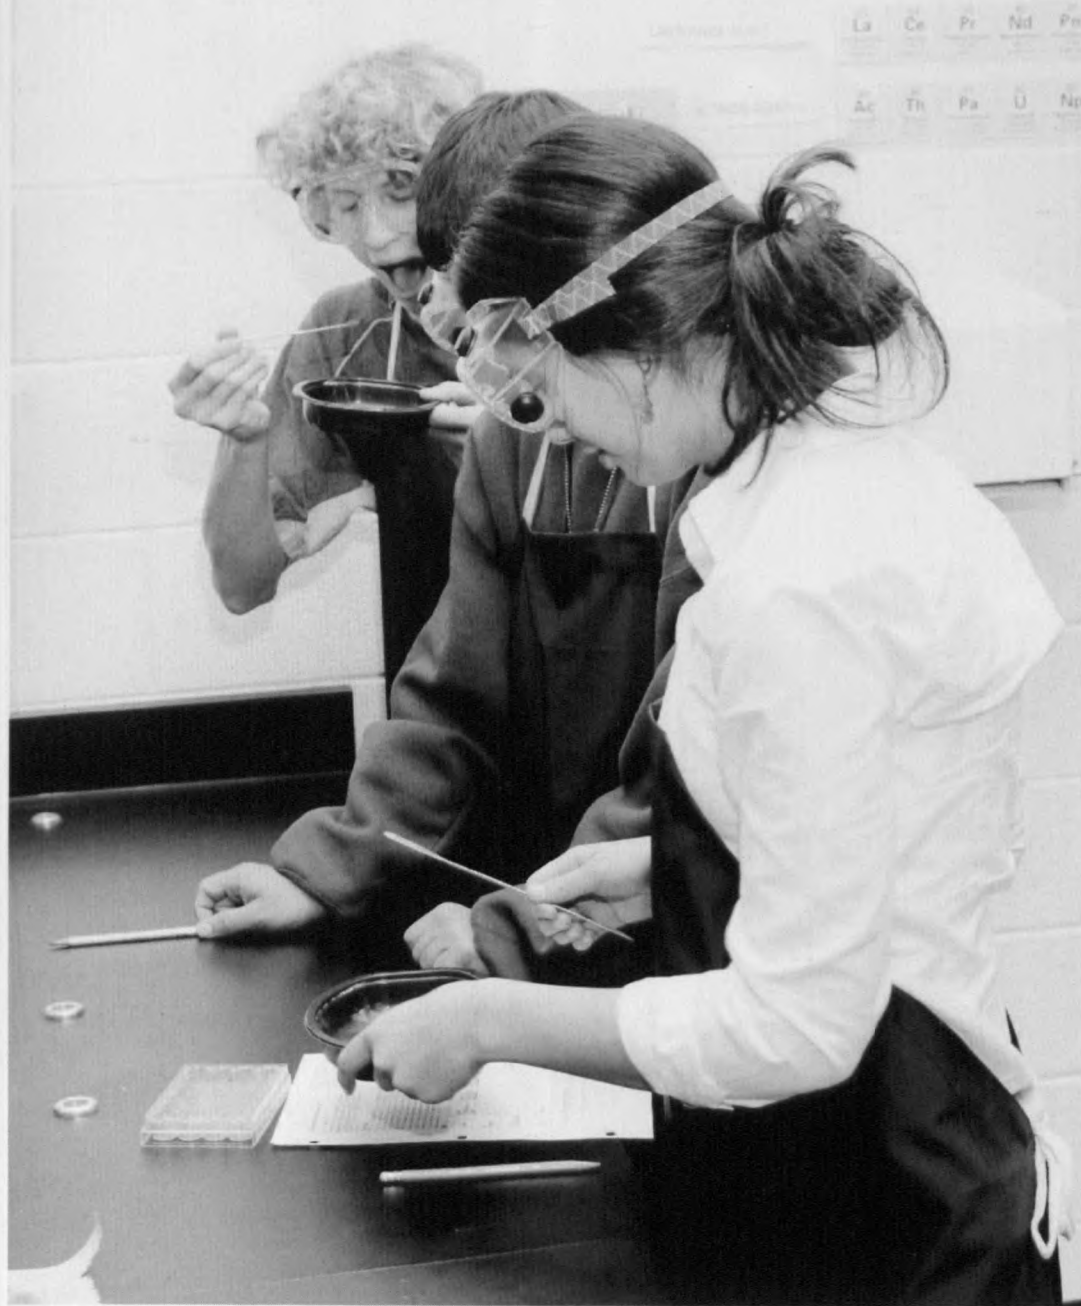

"My chemistry class with Mrs. Wall is the best class," said Alyssa Perez, "she always makes the class more interesting with her side stories and funny thoughts, which makes us think in a different way than we are used to."

Sophomore Kimberly Davis said, "Chemistry is so much fun, one day I put on an apron for a lab and it was like a long black rubber dress that touched the floor, so I decided that I was going to make a pretty pink apron for me to wear during labs. Then I decided to pass it along so that next year the shortest person could wear it and pass it on as well for many years to come."

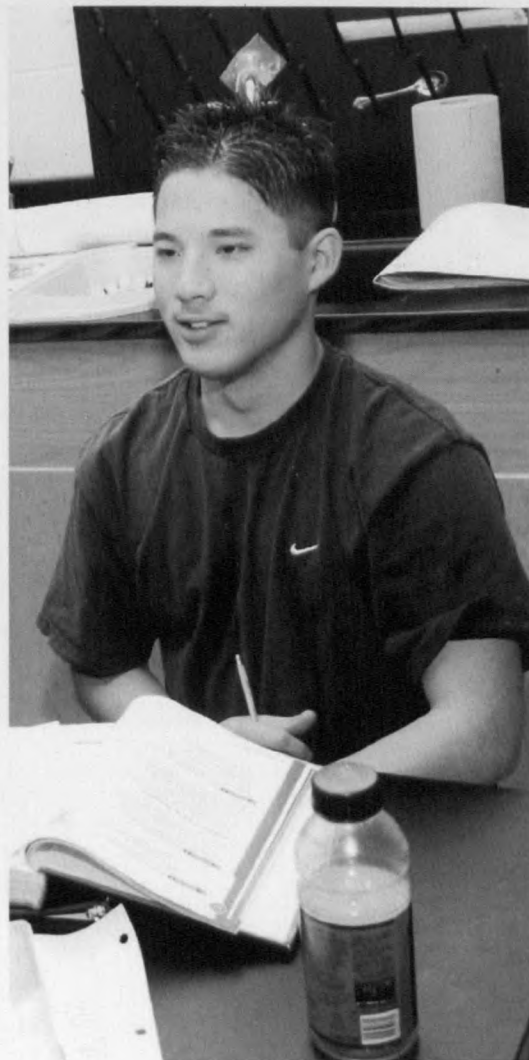

Pierre Melton talked about his third period class, "My Earth Science class with Mrs. Wright is probably my favorite class," he said. "She is really cool and science is pretty interesting to me. We also do a lot of cool things, but the best part is probably the teacher."

"In Mr. Moulen's first period class," Sarah James said, "he makes Physics fun, even though we all see each other everyday. We not only practice math problems, but we also have class discussions and debates that relate physics to everyday things." She also said that, "first period class is not a stressful class, it's relaxed, and no one's afraid to ask questions or just have a good time, because we're always learning, even though we don't know it."

Sophomores Barak Holtslag, Justin Park, and Emily Tiefenbrum perform an experiment in Mrs. Wall's chemistry class. Labs were made all the more fun by the need to wear goggles and aprons.

Freshman Ray Gagne listens to his teacher, Ms. Wright, while working in the textbook and taking notes for his earth science seventh period class.

World Geography teacher Mrs. Gallitz shares her knowledge to the class about Asia. Watching on the students are captivated with her lesson.

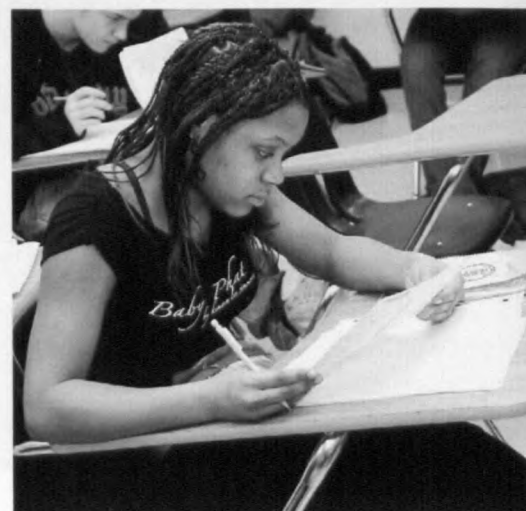

Mr. Davis teaches his students about World History. Always having a smile on his face, he made whatever period he taught interesting.

World Geography and World History teacher Ms. Miles answers a question.

Lynx To The Past

The Social Studies department had many valuable teachers this year. One well known U.S. and VA History teacher was Mr. Wonders. Mr. Wonders was known for his non-stop circling the classroom. It was once counted that he walked around the classroom 63 times in one period. Many students knew him for his loud, stern voice that could be heard from classrooms all around his-even into the next hall! One of his previous students, Nick Persian said, "During the class Mr. Wonders will pace around the classroom like a madman and constantly yell at the top of his lungs, ZERO!". Juliette Cho, a previous student of Mr. Wonders said, "His class is always interesting and you never know what'll happen. He compels you to want to learn about history and really makes the class interesting."

Mrs. Curry, a World Geography teacher "is a lot of fun," said Nigel Baumgartner. Nigel also said, "She does a lot of review games that help a lot with my studies."

Cory Teates, a junior said "My favorite class is U.S. and Virginia History with Mrs. Mauri". "We take a lot of notes but the class is interactive." Our teachers were the tickets to the time machine!

Sophomore Katelyn Crouse and junior Amanda Brown focus on assignments in Ms. Miles class.

Mr. Wonders shows his 5th period class a diagram of immigration.

Hola Amigos!

As students mastered the Spanish language, they had fun speaking to each other. Learning another language required a lot of work, but many said it was worth it. Sophomore Katie Walton chimed in with "Yo gusto espanol clase mucho!," meaning, "I really like Spanish class!"

Activities and projects made learning this language fun. Junior Chris Carter said, "Mrs. Byers, always had a way to make class interesting. We were always in groups and partners, learning together."

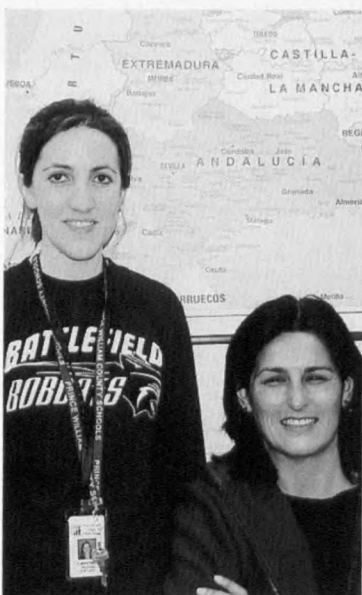

Interacting with fluent Spanish speakers motivated students to learn more. Sophomore Jorge Liloy said, "writing letters to people in Spain as pen-pals is an interesting way to learn about other cultures. We write to them in Spanish and they write back in English." Other projects also included reports on student's childhoods written in Spanish and much more. So if Spanish was so interesting would people continue to take and use it after high school?

Most students believed sticking to it is the way to go because of the increasing number of Spanish speakers in the area. Junior Colette McGlynn said, "Knowing another language and culture makes you feel more well rounded."

Junior Nanna Onwuka disagreed, "After three years I am done with Spanish. I know the basics and thats all I need."

Spanish students, sophomore Emma Niezgoda and junior Caleb Cinnamon, are exchanging gingerbread house in a world language club meeting before Christmas.

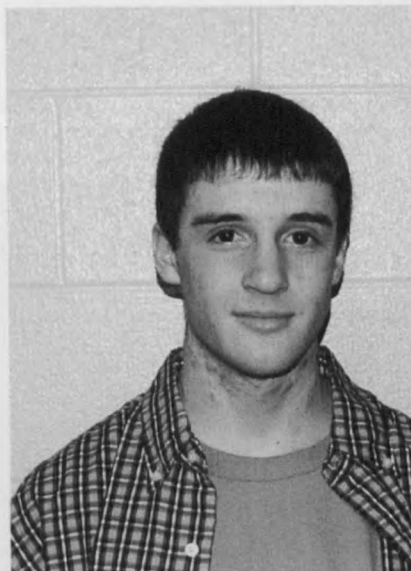

Mrs. Martinez and Mrs. Fernandez were Battlefield's Spanish speaking teachers who came from Spain!

As always Mrs. Byers class is filled with fun and exciting activities that keep her students moving around and staying awake! Students sit and wait as she explains the next activity.

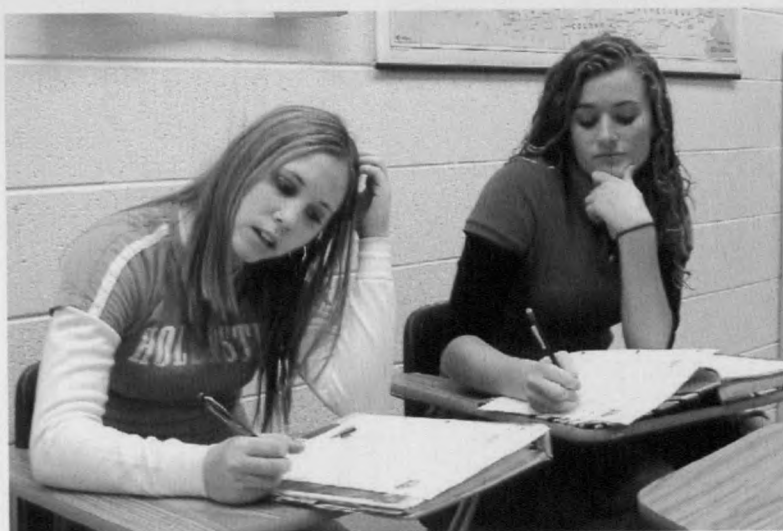

Students have fun as they get up to move into groups for their magazine cutting assignment where they cut and pasted pictures and told their classmates in Spanish what they meant. Junior Mark Bittle said, "I enjoyed class with Mrs. Byers because she is always fun and we always do group work."

Junior Matt Augostasky said, "The people in my Spanish class made the year more fun. It was really cool to speak Spanish."

Juniors Laura Lewis and Sarah Fening are working hard on their Spanish III vocabulary words. Expanding terminology was important in learning a new language.

In Mrs. Bruckshen's Spanish II class, students sit and listen intently as their teacher explains their next project.

Juniors Austin Bent and Cathryn Searcy have fun talking and working together on group projects in Mrs. Byers Spanish class.

The Competition Piece

Sophomores CC Jorquera, Jenny Park, and freshman Nathan Hagan warm-up at practice.

Junior, Danielle Fowler expresses her love for theater and drama by acting crazy and being herself.

Thespians In Action

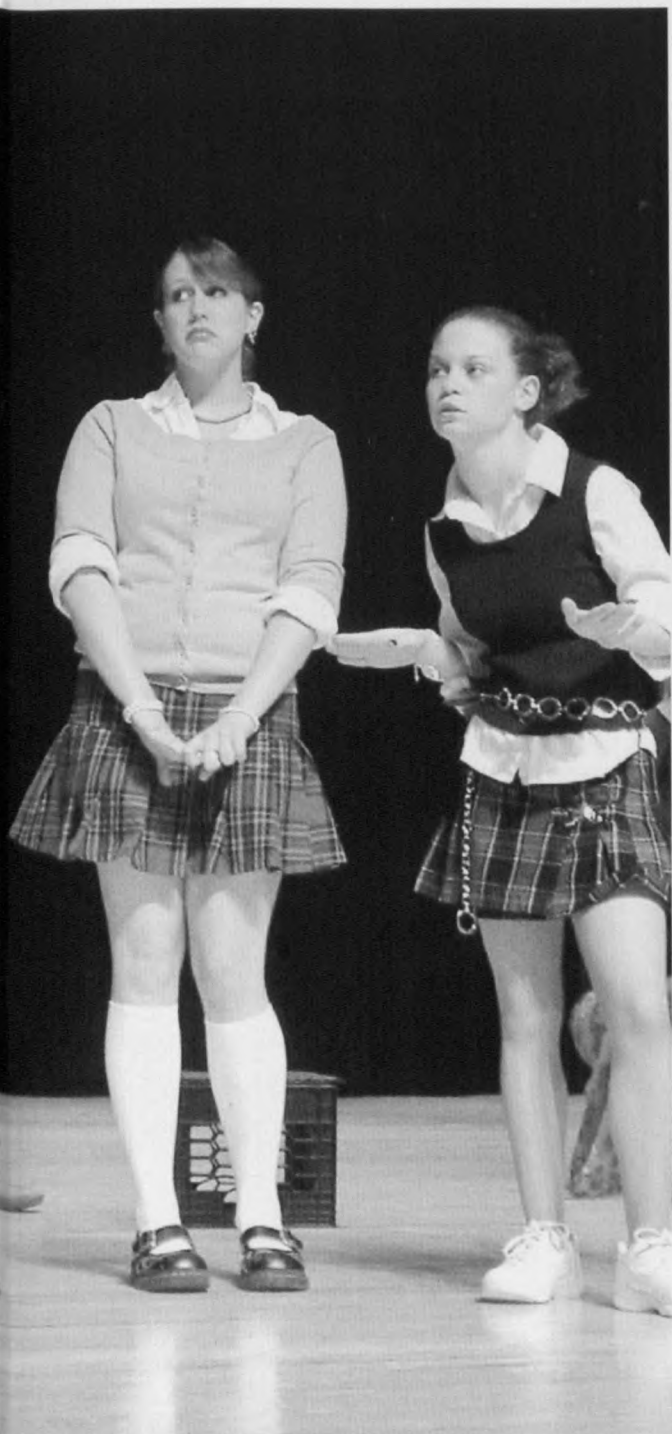

In drama, the quote 'Actions speak louder than words' is very true. Junior, Ginger Brothers said, "The best thing about drama is being able to play a role that you're nothing like." It was a great place to express yourself and be a totally different person.

The first play of the year was 'The Competition' which involved a lot of people, patience, and time. But in the end it was a great success. Mrs. Gibbs, the guidance secretary, went to the play and said, "The play was a very pleasant experience and made me laugh"

The actors and actresses, known as thespians, were very nervous when the judging began on February 2nd. Junior, Kyle Blakenship said, "I was nervous while we were being judged and we might have not done as well as we wished. But I did manage to meet some friends and introduce the 'Chapstick Club'."

This experience even inspired others to write their own plays. Freshman, Nathan Hagan said, "I decided to write my own play because they are so much fun to be involved in. I'm actually in the process of writing a play about a teenager trying to find his inspiration or muse."

During the last practice before drama's first performance juniors, Ginger Brothers, Paige Pederzani, Danielle Fowler, Kelly Wilkerson, and freshman E.J. Tremols, really step it up and get into the theater atmosphere.

Junior Juliette Cho, sophomore April Shettle-Magee, junior Nick Collins and junior Amanda Duggleby worked extra hours on the paper to deliver it on time.

Juniors Magdy Kamel and Tomas Shin work together when researching for their next article to dig up the latest story, while Sarah James works on putting the finishing touches on her article.

Students in the Journalism class have really come together to make the newspaper entertaining for the entire school. Long hours were spent after school and in the morning to make it happen. "Newspaper has definitely been a learning experience. A lot of our staffmembers were newbies, so we had a lot of problems starting off, but I think that's what makes us so close," said junior Juliette Cho. Journalism also helped students learn about everything that goes into a newspaper.

"Being in the newspaper has given me appreciation for all the time and effort that goes into a paper," said junior Nick Collins.

Hola! Bonjour! Save!

New languages were mastered by students of the world language club. Junior Corey Teates said, "World language club is an exciting opportunity to learn about other countries culture, plus there's always food so thats cool." There was plenty of food and excitement at the Dia de los Muertos celebration held in the auxiliary cafeteria that took place in October.

"Having all the different languages in one club gives us a lot of options and variety, which is always fun" said junior Isabelle Shumaker.

Freshman vice president, Austin Smith got into the Dia de los Muertos spirit with some of the decoration. Can you say "Get a room?!"

Freshman constructed their graham cracker and frosting concoctions while having fun and learning about the cultures of the world.

If there's a party going on, then there has to be decorations to get everyone in the spirit!

The only thing better than making a gingerbread house, is eating it! Sophomore Steve Koranski put the final touches on his work of art before the house was eaten to pieces!

Members of the World Language club were able to just relax and learn cool new things at the same time. Juniors Ashley Alexander, Danielle Fowler, Emily Ludeman, Dana Dobson, Josh Kern, and freshman Kristen Norkus made the party one to remember.

Sophomore Jessica Kim showed off her creative gingerbread house on her way out of the club event.

Señora Clemence and freshman Morissa Shaker got pumped up to celebrated El Dia de Los Muertos fiesta after school.

Advisor Pam Bailey helped junior Lauren Rayburn with her BCTV spread.

2005 Editors: Denise Cooper, Caitlyn Reynolds, Laura Schafer, Katelyn Crouse

Juniors Taylor Entsminger and Sarah Levin selected pictures to put in the yearbook. They decided which pictures everyone would enjoy and which ones were good quality yearbook pictures as well.

Links Behind the Lynx

From naming the book to matching names with totally new and unfamiliar faces, starting the first edition of the Lynx was a challenge!

Junior Lauren Peacock said, "Being part of the yearbook staff was fun. It was a lot of work since half of us had no experience, but we have come along way since the beginning and pulled it all together."

"Being on the yearbook staff enabled us to meet new people by interviewing them for the spreads. It has been a great experience and I was so glad to be apart of something so big, 'we've made history'," said junior Maria Arvik.

Yearbook was a learning experience for many of the staff members who want to pursue careers in similar fields. They learned how to do layouts, create spreads with copy and pictures along with making new friends in the class.

"This year's yearbook has been hard, but its been fun. It's been a great learning experience for me since I want to pursue a career in journalism," said junior Taylor Entsminger.

Editors, Denise Cooper, Laura Schafer, and Katelyn Crouse discuss how much fun it was to be in yearbook this year. They couldn't wait to distribute the yearbook to the whole school, so that everyone could share what the yearbook team had put together.

SAVING
FOR COLLEGE
IS EASIER THAN EVER

Paying for college is harder than ever. But saving for college can be easier than ever.

Let me show you how you can save for your child's or grandchild's college education and potentially get tax benefits. Best of all, you can use the American Funds,® one of America's oldest and most respected mutual fund families, in an individual college savings plan that I'll design just for you.

For more information, call me.

Young Life

All high school students are welcome to come to Young Life, a friendly Christian teen club. Come together on Monday nights, at the Carlyle Station at 7:30 p.m.

Welcome!

Our goal at Park Valley Church is to be a place where you feel welcomed and at home. At PVC, we're not concerned with the clothes you wear, our concern is that you receive life-changing answers from God's Word. Before the service, refreshments are provided to give people a chance to get to know each other. During the service, you'll enjoy our upbeat music and practical preaching from the Word of God. Why not try Park Valley this Sunday? We think you'll be glad you did!

Worship

- Up-beat music band
- Practical talks
- Casual and comfortable atmosphere

Small Groups

- Many Small groups to choose from in neighborhood near you provide a great opportunity to make new friends.
- Small groups for teens

Directions: From Points East: Take I-66 West to Exit 40 (Rte. 15 Haymarket). Turn right and go North on Rte. 15. Go 1.8 miles to the new Dominion Valley development. Turn left at the third light on Dominion Valley Drive. Go 0.8 miles to the stop sign at Waverly Farm Drive and turn right. The school will be on your left.
